TWO FIREMEN UNDER AUTO 12 FOOT FALL

George Myers With Edgar Stater in Crash on Sunday

BAD STEERING GEAR

Both men in Local Hospital, One With Broken Leg

Two Glendale firemen are in the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital today as the result of an automobile accident Sunday morning near Roscoe. George Meyers, who was driving the car, is suffering from bruises and cuts in addition to acid burns on his face. Edgar Stater, the other occupant of the car, was more painfully hurt. His left leg is fractured in several places near the hip joint.

The two men, who are stationed at fire house No. 1, were driving on San Fernando road near Roscoe. As the car was crossing the bridge a pin dropped from the steering gear. An attempt was made to stop the car, which failed. The heavy machine crashed through the railing of the bridge and dropped 12 feet to the wash, falling on top of the two men. Meyers managed to get his feet under the machine in such a place that he could hold the weight of the car away from their bodies. While he was in this position acid from the storage battery in the machine ran down across his cheek, inflicting painful burns.

MORE MONEY IN BIG FLOAT FUND

Today's Receipts Add Up to Only $875 Toward $1800 Fund

The organizations, the N. P. Banks Post No. 170, G. A. R., and the Glendale lodge Knights of Pythias have contributed to the fund that is being raised by the chamber of commerce to prepare a float to take part in the Pasadena tournament of roses as Glendale's entry.

The roll of honor now reads as follows: City of Glendale, $750; Tuesday Afternoon club, $25; Herbert Smith, $25; N. P. Bank Post No. 170, G. A. R., $14.30; Glendale Federation of P.-T. A., $10; Knights of Pythias, $8.48; J. M. Rhoades, $5; C. R. Snider, $5; Thursday Afternoon clug 5; H. E. Noble, 5; Glendale Feed and Fuel Co., 5; J. C. Sherer, 5; E. F. Sanders, $5; Dr. Roy V. Hogue, $3; "A Friend," $1; J. A. Thayer, $1; Gilbert Cowan, $1; Paul Vissman, $1.

There has been a total of less than $875 contributed to the float fund and the call for funds stated that $1,800 was required.

Contributions to this fund should be mailed or delivered in person to J. M. Rhoades at the chamber of commerce. Come on! Let's go! Send in your contribution and have a part in the float that is destined to win the first prize at the pageant for the third successive year.

DE VALERA MAY QUIT

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The meeting of the Dail Eireann Wednesday to consider the Anglo-Irish treaty will be secret because it is feared a stormy session will develop and Eamonn de Valera might resign during the session, the Dublin correspondent of the London Evening Standard wired his paper here today.

GET WET CARGO

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 12.—The motor driven freighter Alert, carrying a cargo of liquor and champagne valued at $100,000, was seized by police today in the New Basin canal here.

PRISON INCREASE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 12.—There are 3355 person in California state prisons, according to a report by the state board of charities and corrections made public today. This is an increase of 505 over the same date last year.

BRITISH PRESS FAVOR NEW PACIFIC PACT

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Britain, speaking through its press, extended a hearty welcome today to the new four-power Pacific entente, supplanting the Anglo-Japanese alliance. The London newspapers are unanimous in their approval.

"The real thing at last," said the Morning Post, which heretofore has been lukewarm toward the plan.

"There never was a document of greater promise to mankind," said the Times.

Henry James Writing on Timely Subjects in His News Comment

Take Henry James for instance. Here is a man who thinks deeply, who writes entertainingly and who strikes straight from the shoulder. You find his work every evening on the editorial page under the Comment on the Day's News.

This evening Mr. James writes about the return of Charles W. Morse, who secured his release from prison on the pretense of being so ill that he was about to die. Back from Europe, he is met by a warrant and public opinion. What Mr. James says is interesting. He also writes on several other subjects, speeders, dreams, fake pictures and such.

Mr. Foley in "The Listening Post" writes about being afraid in the dark, of the troubles that beset men and of the value of sleep. There are editorials on the Christmas tree and about a man of years walking to the top of Mt. Wilson, and Dr. Frank Crane speaks of Mexico and what the country needs.

The editorials and features in this paper are far above the average. They are worthy of your careful consideration. You should turn to them each evening.

OVER TWENTY-FIVE WENT TO VENTURA

Over 25 officers and members of Unity Chapter, R. A. M., of this city, journeyed to Ventura Saturday for what has become an annual visit. They were delightfully entertained over night and at a banquet served at 6:30 Saturday evening, followed by the chapter meeting at which the Glendale officers put on the Royal Arch degree. Because of the illness of his son, High Priest Ernest Morgan was unable to accompany them, the party being in charge of Ira L. Vance, king. Mrs. Vance and Mrs. Mark T. Lee accompanied their husbands, the delegation returning Sunday afternoon.

ROSENBLUTH GETS VINDICATION IN CRONKHITE CASE

State's Atty. Says Federal Agents Bungled in Investigation

TACOMA, Dec. 12.—Vindication of Captain Robert Rosenbluth of any part in the shooting of Major Alex P. Cronkhite at Camp Lewis in October, 1918, was given in a signed statement issued today by James M. Sheldon, prosecuting attorney of Pierce county. The prosecutor roundly scored department of justice agents, whom he charged with bungling the investigation they made of the case.

"Enough has already been said," declares Selden's statement, "to show that the department of justice, when it started these proceedings, was without jurisdiction."

Major Cronkhite died from a bullet wound reported as accidentally self-inflicted, by a coroner's jury at Camp Lewis immediately after the shooting. Later, secret agents working on the case took into custody Roland Pothier, a sergeant in Cronkhite's outfit at the time of his death. Pothier was declared to have stated that he shot Cronkhite under orders from Captain Robert Rosenbluth, but afterwards repudiated the confession.

The gist of Selden's statement tends to show his belief that Rosenbluth was not concerned in the killing of Cronkhite and that Pothier is either of weak mind or had been bullied by federal agents into making statements which had no semblance of truth.

CUPID HITS ONE OF CITY'S POLICE

Patrolman Balthasar Hit Hart Blow by Little Arrow

Dan Cupid has been playing around the police station and found a ready target for his darts. The latest victim of the little fellow is Patrolman J. A. Balthasar, who was quietly married in Los Angeles last Thursday afternoon to Miss Margaret Kennedy of Chicago, while friends and relatives were waiting for the couple to announce the date of their wedding.

The bride and her mother arrived late Wednesday afternoon at the Balthasar home in Pasadena from Chicago, in which city she and the groom were schoolday sweethearts. Thursday afternoon the couple went to Los Angeles and were married.

It is alleged that the groom had the look of a prospective groom so indelibly stamped on his face that when the couple approached the information clerk at the hall of records to iuquire the location of the license bureau that before he had asked the man on duty a question or said a word the bureau conductor said: "Marriage license clerk is in room 2 on the sixth floor. Take the elevator. Good luck to you!"

The bride and groom spent a brief honeymoon in Los Angeles and this morning Patrolman Balthasar was walking his beat and receiving the congratulations of his many friends.

WOMEN WILL MEET CHAMBER ROOMS

Business Women to Discus Their Plans on Tuesday Night

The chamber of commerce is opening its doors in the new building which bears its name on Brand boulevard to members of the Glendale Business Women's club Tuesday evening before it has formally welcomed the public there on its own behalf.

Important reports concerning rest room possibilities, vocational guidance work, Christmas work, etc., will be discussed. Mrs. George U. Moyse will be one of the speakers.

REIGN OF TERROR ON IN IRELAND

DUBLIN, Dec. 12.—A reign of terror by opponents of the Irish peace treaty is feared. Reports of shootings similar to those which occurred before the truce came into Dublin today. They caused much apprehension. Former Mayor Meade of Cork was shot to death in his place of business by armed, masked assassins. Another man was shot and wounded as he was walking on the street in Cork.

There was sporadic shooting in Belfast. One man was wounded.

GIRL OF MANY TITLES

Miss Helen Chadwick, pretty New York girl, is the possessor of many titles. She was once known as the "most photographed girl in America. General Nivelle, famous during the late war, called her the prettiest girl he had seen in America. At a recent convention held in Los Angeles she was named the "Girl of the Golden West."

Big Need For Organization To Bring Industries Here

By JOHN H. GERRIE
Prosperity Editor Glendale Daily Press

Glendale is top-heavy with sleepers. Less than 25 per cent of local wage-earners are carrying the load for the other 75 per cent who come in every night from Los Angeles.

That explains why Glendale has made no headway as an industrial and commercial city. Also why no provision has been made for the maintenance of local prosperity when the last of the sub-divisions shall have been sold to the last of the home-seekers.

John H. Gerrie

The 25 per cent who carry the load have accomplished wonders, but there is a limit, even to THEIR enthusiasm and enterprise and energy. They are ambitious to build in this beautiful valley a big, fine, permanent business city. But the house cannot be lifted upon a firm foundation without some help from the sleeping porch.

For a permanent business city there must be industries and weekly pay rolls. There must be a larger proportion of residents who eat three meals a day here in addition to sleeping here, who buy their boots and their clothes and their hats in Glendale, who do their financing through Glendale banks, who have their teeth looked after by Glendale dentists and their livers by Glendale doctors, who furnish their houses and keep their refrigerators and their library tables and their medicine chests stocked from Glendale shops.

But Glendale cannot have a larger proportion of earners and spenders at home without means provided to keep earners and spenders at home. There will not be commerce or pay rolls without industries of some sort and industries of any sort WILL NOT COME WITHOUT ACTION to induce them to come.

In a barber shop the other day two patrons discussed the campaign of this newspaper to bring industries to Glendale. Both approved of it but one said he knew of at least half a dozen families who would move from Glendale if industries were brought in. The other also knew of several. Then they went over the list and discovered that every anti-industrial resident earned his money in Los Angeles and slept in Glendale.

Such an attitude, if true, is manifestly UNFAIR to the 25 per cent of local wage earners who carry the load. It is UNFAIR to the shop keepers and eating house owners and the bankers and professional men who have invested their money and cast their lot here in expectation, if not belief, that Glendale is to be a big business city as well as a big home city.

Over alongside the Southern Pacific tracks is a stretch of open territory extending from Eulalia street to the Burbank town line, a distance of about three miles, with a width from one to two blocks and containing about 100 acres. On the official map in the city hall this strip is colored yellow and labelled "industrial area," but it conatins only a few industries. Out beyond the Verdugo wash channel to the Burbank line is other vacant land that may be added to the industrial area, if and when needed.

This being the situation in outline a big question faces Glendale today. Fortunately an equally big answer is ready. Here's the question:

HOW CAN WE FILL THE INDUSTRIAL AREA WITH INDUSTRIES?

And here's the answer:

GO GET THEM!

Glendale possesses an excellent business adminis-

SEARCH WAY DOWN DEEP IN YOUR HEART

Have you purchased that pair of stockings for some poor boy or girl? Have you filled one of the stockings with goodies and have you experienced the great joy of doing something for some one you know will appreciate it?

The time before Christmas is growing short. The plan is simple. Here it is:

This newspaper asks you to buy a pair of stockings for some poor boy or girl and to fill one of the stockings with things that are dear to the heart of a child and to bring the pair of stockings to the office of this newspaper. When you have done this you have completed your task. This paper will see that the stockings, the empty one and the full one, are given to some poor boy or girl on Christmas morning.

Can't you imagine the joy of a child receiving this present from Santa Claus on Christmas morning, pulling the candy and nuts and presents from the stocking and breathing a prayer of thankfulness to the good but unknown friend that sent the treasures!

Think of the unfortunate boys and girls who will have no presents this year, who will not know that there is a Christmas for them unless you see that they get this present. It isn't much to do to buy a pair of stockings and to fill one. You will find a real joy in doing it. And on Christmas morning there will be happiness in homes where little sunshine has penetrated. Isn't it worth the trouble?

FICTION READING PREVAILS LOCAL LIBRARIES

Interesting Side Lights on What Glendale People Read

Does the average person know what variety of books is more generally read in the Glendale library?

While Glendale has been going ahead with great strides in building activity, industrial progress and other forms of expansion, the city library has been keeping step with the growth.

The main library, located at the corner of Harvard and Kenwood, has a branch on south Brand which was the original Tropico library before that portion of the city was annexed. Each year marks an increase in demand for more books, periodicals, bulletins, etc., in both the main library and the branch. In July, 1921, there were 11,118 volumes in the library, 1430 having been added since July, 1920, and 400 going to the branch.

The number of books of adult fiction read during the year, July 1, 1920 to July 1, 1921, was 44,908, non-fiction 9,943, a total including magazines, bulletins, etc., of 97,689. The number of books of adult fiction read from July 1921 to December 1921 was 22,000, non-fiction 3,818. The children, too, are finding time to do a goodly amount of reading. Since last July 13,612 fiction and 2,847 non-fiction books have been read by children.

The old squib, "keeping up with Dad," has taken a reverse. It is now, "keeping up with son." Fathers find that not only a general knowledge of current events gleaned from the daily newspapers suffices to keep him informed on questions of home discussion, but a knowledge of mechanical arts, and science, as well. So, it is not all left to mother to do the family reading and be the "walking encyclopedia."

Like changes in styles of clothes, so do people's tastes in choice of reading change. Just now there seems to be a demand for western stories by Zane Grey, Peter B. Kyne, Bower and others, while the old favorites — detective stories, take back space.

ROY GARDNER TO GET NEW TRIAL

Court Forbids Jurors Tell How They Voted First Trial

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 12.—Roy Gardner today faced a new trial on charge of having robbed the mails at Maricopa, Ariz., November 3. Federal Judge William H. Sawtelle dismissed the jury in Gardner's original trial on this charge, when it failed to reach an agreement after 17 hours deliberation.

"Do not discuss this case nor disclose the number of ballots taken," Judge Sawtelle warned the discharged jurors. "Such information might materially affect subsequent trials of the defendant on this and other charges."

Gardner admitted the Maricopa robbery during the course of his trial, but plead mental abnormality.

MORSE RETURNS TO FACE CHARGES

Financier Arrives to Anser Questions of Officials

NEW YORK, Dec. 12.—Charles W. Morse, financier and ship builder, arrived here from France

CHARLES W. MORSE

on the liner Paris today and will go immediately to Washington to face charges of shipbuilding frauds. Morse, who returned from France when the government cabled him to return voluntarily or be arrested, announced after consulting lawyers, that he would take the 2:25 train for Washington. He issued a statement declaring that before he left America he inquired of government officials and was informed no charge was contemplated against him. He left openly, he said, and has returned voluntarily, ready to fight any accusation against him.

HARDING THINKS SENATORS WILL VOTE TREATY

Dare Not Oppose New Pact Fear of Losing Senate Seats

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Harding and his chief lieutenants have complete plans for crushing senate opposition to the Pacific treaty between the United States, Britain, France and Japan. They will offer to the senate the alternative of the four-power treaty, which makes it safe to disarm, or a continuance of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which makes it unsafe for the United States to disarm.

Harding's first move to checkmate senate opposition was his appointment of Senators Lodge and Underwood to the American delegation in the arms conference. The second was the selection of Senator Lodge, chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, to present the treaty to the conference and its guests. He opened the ratification fight before any of his senate colleagues could voice a criticism.

Administration officials today said they "had the jump" on the opposition and intended to keep it. Harding, Hughes and Lodge all believe that senators who fight the treaty will sign their own political death warrants. For, as one official pointed out today, the treaty is essential to the success of the arms conference.

WOMAN IS HELD RECKLESS DRIVING

Bonita Darling Will Appear Before Court Today

Miss Bonita Darling of Los Angeles was arrested Sunday on a charge of reckless driving by Detective Sergeant Delgardo after a collision with another automobile at San Fernando road and Sonora street. The car driven by Miss Darling collided with another machine and Miss Darling was slightly cut about the face, shoulders and leg.

She was treated for her injuries before being taken to the police station. It is alleged that the woman had been drinking but was not under the influence of intoxicating liquor. She was released on her own recognizance, to appear before Police Judge F. H. Lowe this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

TOOK EVIDENCE

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 12.—W. C. Hall, prohibition agent, found a large quantity of "evidence" in a local cafe. Two hours later cops had to drag him by the heels into a cell. He got ten days.

FLOATS BAD CHECKS OVER $500 HERE

Man With Good Past Record Leaves for Other Parts

CHECKS AMOUNT $500

Officer Delgardo Believes He Has Trace of Man Now

E. Harris, until Saturday night a painting contractor here, is on his way to parts unknown, richer by more than $500, and several Glendale business men are holding worthless checks and wondering how it happened.

Harris, it appears from police records, has been engaged as a painting contractor and had a reputation for honesty and integrity. He always paid his men promptly on Saturday and paid them in cash. He had business dealings with many of the business houses in Glendale, had paid his accounts promptly by check and the checks were always good. He and his wife apparently lived an ideal life. This was all before Saturday.

Today, in addition to having defrauded several business men of Glendale, he has deserted his wife, leaving her at home with only one dollar in her purse and 93 cents in the bank.

The first word the police received that Harris was floating bad checks was Saturday evening from the Broadway Cafe, where Harris had been in the habit of taking his meals. He cashed a worthless check there for $150, receiving $65, the balance he said he would get Monday. Later it was found that he had victimized Mr. Hunter of the Glendale Paint and Paper company for about $300. Zite-Leen's men's store cashed a check for him, giving in payment for a large check considerable cash and a check for the remainder. All together Harris secured more than $500 before departing, so far as can be learned.

According to his wife, the first intimation she had that her husband had left was Saturday night when he failed to come home. She said that he telephoned to her early in the evening from Los Angeles and said that a friend had been injured and that he was going to the hospital to visit him. Harris told his wife that he would be late in coming home and not to wait up for him That is the last word she has had.

Detective Sergeant Delgardo has been detailed to investigate the case and says that he has secured some information regarding Harris' present address and it is thought likely that he will be arrested within a short time.

LOCAL CHRISTIAN CHURCH GIVES TO LONG BEACH

Subscribes $100 to Half Million Dollar Neighboring Church

A party of Glendale people who attended the dedication of the new Christian church at Long Beach included Rev. and Mrs. C. A. Cole and two children, O. L. Kilborn, Harry Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jalageos, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Mercer, George Staub and Mr. and Mrs. F. B. Mattice and son, Alton. This new church is the most expensive in California, costing $525,000, and it will seat 2500 people and the auditorium and 1250 in the banquet hall. A balance of $273,000 was raised yesterday for George L. Snively. All guests who cared to stay were entertained at dinner and supper in the banquet hall.

Mr. Cole of Central Christian church of this city was honored by being selected to preside as one of the elders at the great communion service during the afternoon. The Central Christian church of Glendale, in spite of the fact that it is engaged in building its own edifice, gave $100 to this new building.

The ceremonies of the day were impressive.

BANDITS WIN

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 12.—One man was shot today by six automobile bandits, who held up and robbed the State bank at Panama, Ill., 50 miles southeast of here, of $20,000 in cash and Liberty bonds valued at thousands of dollars.

SIGN TUESDAY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The Washington treaty will be signed tomorrow. This became known today when Rene Viviani, French delegate, said he would start for Paris tomorrow, "after the treaty is signed."

WOMAN'S CLUB TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Planning Fine Entertainment for Thursday December 29

LA CRESCENTA, Dec. 12.—The regular meeting of the La Crescenta Woman's club will be held at the school auditorium next Wednesday afternoon. After the business meeting the afternoon will be devoted to domestic science. Each member will bring one of her choice receipts and sample—which will be sold. The proceeds will go to the building fund of the club.

Mr. and Mrs. F. K. Czerniski of Michigan avenue, were hosts to a group of Los Angeles friends over Sunday. Among them were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Molman, Miss Frances Evans, and Messrs John Dawson and John Evans.

An entertainment of unusual merit is being planned for Thursday evening, December 29. The artists, all being from Glendale. The quartet includes Mrs. Helen Gramam Cole, first soprano; Mrs. Charles A. Parker, second soprano; Mrs. Albert M. Draper, first contralto; Mrs. John Cotton, second contralto, and Mrs. R. D. Jones, reader. Mrs. J. A. Wright, accompanist. The entertainment will be given at the school auditorium.

The bazaar and chicken dinner given by the ladies of the community church at the school auditorium last Friday evening was a tremendous success. The committee in charge consisted of Mesdames E. Stine, C. Burt and C. Wooley. Mrs. D. Westerber was in charge of the needle work table and the candy booth was presided over by Miss Edith Bush. The proceeds of $150 will go to the building fund of the church.

Miss Elizabeth Faning, the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Tritt of Montrose, is visiting friends at Redondo Beach. Miss Faning was accompanied by Jean and Billy Tritt.

Fred Scott, a former resident of La Crescenta, passed away at his home in Los Angeles last week. Mr. Scott lived in La Crescenta many years, and has many friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Reynolds returned Saturday from a week's motor trip to San Diego and Coronado.

R. E. Steere, the druggist on Montrose and Los Angeles, has added an attractive line of holiday goods to his stock.

Mrs. A. C. Cobb, Misses M. and A. Cobb and little Mary Cobb visited friends here yesterday.

T. S. Minford returned Saturday from a two weeks' stay at Davis, Calif.

ALL AGREE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Complete agreement on all the major problems confronting the arms conference is confidently expected before the end of this, the fifth week of the parley.

FEDERATION P.T.A. DONATES TO FUND

Adds $10 to Make Float for New Years Day Parade

A letter from the Glendale Federation of Parent Teachers' association accompanied a check for $10 was received at the chamber of commerce Saturday in response to an appeal to all patriotic and civic bodies to join in the work of building a float to represent Glendale in the tournament of roses at Pasadena on New Year's Day. The organizations were asked to help by contributing to the fund. This same appeal has been made to the people of Glendale. Each day sees a few names added to the honor roll of contributors. New names added to the list are James Forbes, $2.50, and the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teachers' association, $10.

The letter from the Parent-Teachers ' Association expresses the spirit that should be shown by every individual in Glendale. The chamber of commerce is assisting in the work of promoting the float but the float is not a chamber of commerce entry. It is a Glendale entry and every citizen of the city has a share of the responsibility for its success.

'LUCKY' O'CONNOR MAKES ESCAPE

Chicago Crook to Meet Death Thursday Breaks Jail

CHICAGO, Dec. 12. — "Lucky Tommy" O'Connor, Chicago's most notorious killer and gunman, beat the noose today. O'Connor, scheduled to hang Thursday for the murder of a policeman, slugged his way to freedom when he broke from the "bull pen" of the Cook county jail. Police Chief Fitzmorris branded the escape of the criminal as a "frame up" and ordered his officers to shoot to kill.

The underworld haunts of the gunman were combed by posses. Investigation of rumors that "O'Connor would never hang" which emanated from the underworld, was conducted by Chief Fitzmorris.

Davis Straus, guard, who was overpowered by O'Connor when he broke jail yesterday and delivered two companions to freedom, was under arrest today.

Darling Dave O'Connor, prominent broker and brother of the jail breaker, was also in custody.

There probably would be more woman inventors if they were anxious to discover new wrinkles.

State News in Brief

ALABAMA

GREENVILLE.— Three bodies have been recovered from the ruins of the Stabler hospital, which was destroyed by fire. The dead are Robert Scott, Montgomery, Daniel Driggers, Jr., Greenville; Mrs. Daniel Driggers, Greenville; Mrs. Ola Strouter of Cordele, Ga., a nurse, was seriously injured.

All of the victims were in rooms on the top floor of the building and their exit was shut off by the flames. Mrs. Strouter discovered the fire and largely due to her efforts, most of the patients and other occupants of the building were saved. D. A. L. Stabler, owner of the building, and members of his family and staff, experienced narrow escapes.

Mrs. Driggers sacrificed her life in an effort to save her son, who was a patient. De Shirling, member of the Auburn football team, saved the lives of several persons whom he carried to places of safety. Shirling was passing the building just as the flames were breaking through the walls.

Damage from the flames, which burned several adjoining buildings, was set at $65,000, with small insurance.

NEW JERSEY

NEWARK.—Federal Judge Bodine revised, in so far as affects jurisdiction in this state, the receivership of the Willys corporation by dropping two of the receivers named by Judge John Killits of Toledo, Ohio. Those relieved were Frank P. Kension and Clem O. Miniger, both of Toledo.

The court permitted the appointment of Clifford I. Voorhees, of New Brunswick, N. J., to stand, and named as joint receiver James Keeney, a Trenton, N. J., editor. Action was taken on applications of a number of New York banks, which contended that J. N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company, was seeking to control the receivership both here and in Ohio.

Plaintiffs in today's action pointed out that Miniger is a stockholder, director and vice-president of the Willys corporation and that Kennison is vice-president of the Ohio Trust & Savings bank, the complainant in the Toledo suit.

RHODE ISLAND

PROVIDENCE.—By a provision of its shipping articles in a crew for one of its southbound tankers, the Standard Oil company indicated that it will follow the lead of the Texas company and reduce wages of seamen.

The Texas company had announced a reduction in the monthly pay of able seamen from $72.50 to $60, with corresponding cuts for all other departments of its tank ship crews. The Standard Oil company indicates a similar reduction.

KENTUCKY

LOUISVILLE.—Mrs. John Morris has been appointed Kentucky chairman of a survey being conducted by the League of Women Voters to establish the cause of the men's failure to vote. She has appointed Mrs. George Grant for the Louisville district.

Mrs. Morris has already completed the canvass of four representative districts. The survey is under the direction of Miss Belle Sherwin, Cleveland, who is chairman of the league's efficiency-in-government committee.

Indifference, lack of physical ability and residence qualification, fear of loss of employment because of party affiliation and because of the seeming insignificance of one lone vote, are among the causes assigned.

LOUISVILLE.—The sewer commission will be enabled to start work within three months as a result of the sale of $1,000,000 worth of sewer bonds at par to R. M. Grant & Co., Chicago investment brokers, and J. J. B. Hilliard, brokerage firm of this city. The sale, which was made by George T. Wood, chairman of the sewer commission, and closed through the Citizens-Union National bank, is the culmination of 18 months' effort on the part of Mr. Wood to dispose of the bonds so that funds would be available for sewer work.

Mr. Wood announced the sale of the bonds, which bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent, and which were authorized a year and a half ago at a meeting of the sewer commission. The Hilliard and Grant concerns each bought $500,000 worth of the bonds, which represents half of the issue of $2.000,000.

It was pointed out that the sale of the bonds had been hampered because of the low rate of interest and the provision in the law of their being sold below par.

A survey of the city's sewer needs made by the commission some time ago showed that $12,000,000 was the need and that $2,000,000 was required to meet immediate needs.

TEXAS

GALVESTION. —Galveston oystermen take issue with Franch scientists, who say that oysters have been suffering from la grippe and that as a result of the disease the number of oyster beds is being rapidly decreased. The only thing from which the Galveston Bay bivalve is suffering, fishermen say, is excessive fat, and they declare that the oysters here this season pass in size and quality those of former years.

The cool weather has greatly increased activity among fishermen, and more than a dozen boats are engaged at present, tonging the beds on Pepper Grove, Shell Island and other places. Oysters are somewhat scarcer this year, but that deficiency is made up in the quality, fishermen say.

KANSAS

TOPEKA.—A Kansas girl, in order to live decently, save a little and have a little recreation, must receive $16.93 a week. This is the result of the cost of living survey made by the industrial court of the state of Kansas. The court recently began the investigations relative to the wages, hours and conditions of laboring women throughout the state. Beginning December 5, the court will hold hearings in many cities to fix the minimum wages and the maximum hours for women.

TOPEKA.—A white squirrel has been added to the zoo at Sage Park. The squirrel is a pure albino and his playfellows at the park rebelled so strenuously when he was first introduced that a special cage was prepared where he may live in peace.

ILLINOIS

CHICAGO. —What Commissioner of Buildings Bostrom characterized as "a most important step in stabilizing of residential property values in Chicago" was taken when the council, by a vote of 55 to 6, passed an ordinance restricting construction of apartment buildings in residential blocks.

The ordinance, its backers say, will prevent the construction of several big apartment buildings in the exclusive residential district along Sheridan road, where homes valued at thousands of dollars are located. A mandamus suit is pending to force the city to issue a permit for a big apartment building between Rosemont and Thorndale avenues on Sheridan road.

MISSOURI

The hearing on the application for a permanent injunction in the suit brought by the jitney owners against Kansas City was continued by Judge Nelson E. Johnson of the circuit court. The attorneys for the city sprung a surprise on the plaintiffs by attacking the constitutionality of the Bestor law, passed at the special session of the legislature.

Earlier in the day, the attorneys for the jitney owners had filed an amended petition invoking the aid of the Bestor law, which went into effect November 1. They contended that under the new law the city had only the right to regulate jitneys, but no right to prohibit them from the use of the public streets. They also set forth in the amended petition that the ordinance prohibiting the use of the streets to the jitney owners unless they obtain the consent of 51 per cent of the property owners along the jitney routes, was void because it was in conflict with the Bestor law.

The city, in its answer to the amended petition, pleaded that the Bestor law was unconstitutional and void because the subject matter therein contained was not submitted to the legislature at the special session by the governor, either in his proclamation calling the special session or in his subsequent message to the legislature.

INDIANA

Lafayette—Self-defense was the claim of Stephen A. Bodan, 29, a business man, who killed Lawrence A. Rawles, 40, owner of a student restaurant near Perdue university. Rawles, jealous of his wife, Mabel Ramey Rawles, who recently asked for a divorce, appeared at a party in a bachelor apartment and saw his wife through the window. He commenced a fight with Bohan, a guest, who drew a revolver when Rawles choked him.

Shipshewana — The Farmers State bank here was robbed of $15,000 in currency and Liberty bonds. The safe had been opened by an acetylene torch. Officials said the loss was covered by insurance. Local authorities believe that three men who came here yesterday in an automobile committed the robbery. It is the ninth time the bank has been robbed in 20 years and the third time this year.

LOUISIANA

New Orleans—The first barge service between New Orleans and the Bayou Teche country, a prosperous section, has been established. The Cuyamel Fruit company, large importers, has built a fleet of four self-propelled barges of 400 tons cargo capacity each to serve the trade. There have been substantial reductions below the railroad rates.

New Orleans—After being idle a week, 12,000 port workers here prepared to go back to their jobs. Decision to call off the strike which has hampered shipping was reached yesterday at a conference between J. C. Jenkins, director of industrial relations of Washington, and members of the cotton council.

TENNESSEE

When the Tennessee Central railroad was offered for sale under order of the federal court there were no bidders, and the sale was postponed until January 10. The Mississippi Valley Trust company of St. Louis filed a motion in the Tennessee Central litigation protesting against the priority of all judgments for personal injuries and damages arising during the receivership of the road. Such judgments total $162,060.29.

FLORIDA

Jacksonville—Warrants for the arrest of four men connected with the brokerage firm of Clement D. Gates & Co., which went into bankruptcy, were received by Sheriff Merritt from Orlando.

The warrants sworn out were against Clement D. Gates, Julian Gates, R. C. Moore and John Doe Salmon, charging the unlawful maintenance in this state of an "office or other business" for the purpose of carrying on or engaging in the business commonly called "futures."

VIOLATES PROMISE

BELFAST, Dec. 12.—"The treaty between Great Britain and Ireland does not fulfill the solemn promises made to Ulster," Premier Sir James Craig told parliament today. "The situation is grave, very serious," he warned.

A man never realizes what a sponge he is until he falls into a puddle of water and mops it all up.

DESIRING THEME SUNDAY SERMON

Timely Subject Is Subject of Sermon of Rev. Preston

("One thing have I desired of the Lord, that will I seek after; that I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life, to behold the beauty of the Lord, and to enquire in His temple.")

I.

The character of the quest. This was it: "That I may dwell in the house of the Lord all the days of my life." He prays that his life may be spent in a sanctuary.

Some people object to going to church. Well, it isn't all in going to church. It won't do anyone much good to go to church if they don't honestly try to put into practice what they believe to be right. But if they have a desire to do right, then they will appreciate church somewhere on Sunday and mid-week services. But no matter how much we should enjoy spending all of our time in the church(and I am afraid this is not the desire of the multitudes, but supposing it was), we should fine it quite impossible. But while we cannot be in the sanctuary all the time, we can carry the church with us in spirit about our daily tasks. And really, we are not Christians if we do not. Speaking locally, when we are out during the week, in one sense, of course, we advertise our church as being located at West Harvard and Pacific avenue.

We frequently speak of the religious and the secular, as though they were two quantities that might run along in parallel lines without flowing into intimate combination. The distinction is perilous and illegitimate. We can no more separate the religious and the secular and preserve their life than we can preserve the life of flesh which is divorced from blood.

II.

"To behold the beauty of the Lord."

That is the second of the great emphasis of the psalmist's prayer. He yearned for a life that is inspired by contemplation of the divine beauty.

Is it not altogether unnecessary to say that in these days we are giving ourselves very little time to "behold anything"? Is not seeing becoming a lost art? We are on the gallop, and quiet, fruitful seeing is not consistent with the racing and hurrying life. We are told that we must have "pep, speed, ect.," to keep up with the time in which we live.

If we want to know of the rich beauty of God, we must give ourselves time to think about it.

When I go to a cafeteria, I see so many fine things to eat arranged before me that if I don't make up my mind beforehand what I want I am liable to overstock. So with the Bible. There are so many beautiful treasures there that one is likely to become bewildered in the immensity of the thing, and it would seem almost better to take some single word spoken by the Master, or some one incident in his life, and dwell upon it until we behold its glory and, by the beholding, have ourselves become glorified.

III.

"To inquire into His temple."

He wants to seek his knowledge in the spirit of devotion. Where is he to make those inquiries? "In His temple." That is the place in which all inquiries should be made.

All investigations should commence and be continued upon one's knees. The solutions of pressing problems should be sought in the mood of prayer. Friends, we are right here at the very root of many of our errors. We do not ask our questions in His temple. We ask them elsewhere and in an alien spirit. We ask our questions defiantly.

There are just two words in the passage which I desire to emphasize. The kind of life was not only "desired" by the psalmist—it was "sought after." "That will I seek after." His prayer determined his pursuit. That is the order in all fruitful religion. Gov. Wm. E. Russell of Massachusetts, who died at the age of 39, but had in that short life been mayor of his city and governor of his state, and had gained national fame, early began to think and act right. As a schoolboy, when boating with five companions, the craft was overturned and he swam a mile to shore. His mother asked him how he was able to reach land, and he replied: "Mother, I thought of you, prayed to God and kept my arms and legs in stroke." That's it—he thought, prayed and worked—and made the shore; and that is the way we shall eventually make the heavenly shore—by thinking, praying and working. We must turn our supplications into duties and let our prayers determine the trend and intensity of our search.

ERROR IN NAMING LOCAL NEWS ITEM

In a recent issue of the Glendale Daily Press the improvements being made by the Glendale Furniture Store, East Broadway, of which Chas. A. Flagg is owner, were credited to the Glendale Hardware company. The Glendale Hardware company is always looking out for the wants of its customers, but at the present time is not making any alterations in its store building. The Glendale Furniture Store, however, is making many changes to better enable it to take care of its growing business.

ACQUIT BOOTLEGGER

DENVER, Dec. 12.—The congregational of the Central Christian church here showed leniency at a mock trial of a "bootlegger." The staid members voted for acquittal when called on to act as the jury.

Camels are made for Men who Think for Themselves

Such folks know real quality—and DEMAND it.

They prefer Camels because Camels give them the smoothest, mellowest smoke they can buy—because they love the mild, rich flavor of choicest tobaccos, perfectly blended—and because Camels leave NO CIGARETTY AFTERTASTE.

Like every man who does his own thinking, you want fine tobacco in your cigarettes. You'll find it in Camels.

And, mind you, no flashy package just for show. No extra wrappers! No costly frills! These things don't improve the smoke any more than premiums or coupons.

But QUALITY! Listen! That's CAMELS!

MOUNTAINEERS SUSPICIOUS OF PENSION BUREAU

Have All Kinds of Beliefs in Regard to Actions of Agents

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—"I wasn't any hero soldier and didn't get shot, but just got blown up trying to put out a fire in camp."

This statement was made to members of the United States Veterans' Bureau in Buchanan, Virginia, by a man whose face had nearly been blown away by a gasoline explosion in France. He was surprised that the government should offer him compensation. This displays one type of ignorance which has been met in work for war veterans in the hill country of Virginia and West Virginia.

In some sections it was thought that unless a man had been a marked hero, or shot in battle, that he was not entitled to anything. Investigation in other hill regions show that many ex-soldiers are suspicious of the aims of the government. They are wary of the efforts of the War Veterans' Bureau in their behalf, because of a misunderstanding of the government's purpose.

The idea prevails, according to members of the "Clean-Up Squad" and other agents of the Veterans' Bureau, that the government compensation is either a pension that goes to all men who saw service, or a "slick" move on the part of the government to get them back into the army.

Those who looked upon the government relief as a pension could not see why one man was getting $8 a month, another $16, and still another close of $80. Among some, the efforts of the Veterans' Bureau were thought to be for the purpose of making a new draft list to get them back into the army, because they were required to make application before the government would give them compensation.

In the "moonshine" localities, according to the agents of the Veterans' Bureau, there was the fear at first that they might be "revenooers." Much of this fear has now been overcome.

Some thrilling experiences have been reported in the hills of West Virginia by a nurse of the Veterans' Bureau, who has had to do much of her travelling on horseback and foot, because of the lack of transportation facilities. On one occasion she was picked up by a group of men in an automobile who recognized her and offered to "tote" her some six or eight miles. She got in the car and minded her own business, but she had to rest her heels high on several demijohns of "corn licker" and had several waits on her trip while deliveries were being made.

HARDING WORKS SAYS CHRISTIAN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—President Harding wants the country to know he isn't loafing on the job. He is somewhat nettled over an impression that appears to have spread about that he spends much of his time golfing and travelling around having a good time.

Newspaper correspondents covering the White House have been given to understand that President Harding feels they haven't given him credit for being a hard worker.

Secretary Christian says the President sticks to his desk until 7:30 p. m. many days, and the President himself believes he works harder than most of the reporters.

After the Thanksgiving turkey had disappeared, little Ralph remarked: "Mamma, I'd rather be a wild turkey than a tame one."

"Why, dear?" queried his mother.

"Because a wild turkey can run around on the prairie all his life, and a tame one gets killed every year."

IF BACK HURTS BEGIN ON SALTS

Flush your kidneys occasionally if you eat meat regularly.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which clogs the kidney pores so they sluggishly filter or strain only part of the waste and poisons from the blood, then you get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver trouble, nervousness, constipation, dizziness, sleeplessness, bladder disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any reliable pharmacy and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which all regular meat eaters should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.—Adv.

HERBERT M. HARRIMAN AND BRIDE, WHO WAS A NURSE, OFF ON HONEYMOON TRIP

This photograph of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Melville Harriman was made as they were sailing for Europe from New York. They will spend the Christmas holidays in Ireland. They have been married only about a month and the trip is part of their honeymoon. The marriage of Mr. Harriman, who is a cousin of the late E. H. Harriman and a brother of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, and Miss Sally Hunter, a graduate nurse, was a great surprise to society. She served through the war as an army nurse. Mr. Harriman was under her care for several weeks a year ago.

Big Need For Industries Here

tration. But it is no part of the functions of a city government to fish for factories. Glendale also enjoys an excellent Chamber of Commerce. But chambers of commerce, particularly of fast growing cities, have more work than they can attend to in keeping the wheels of progress moving smoothly, without going away from home for more wheels.

That which is needed in Glendale, perhaps operating under the supervision of the city administration or perhaps in affiliation with the Chamber of Commerce, possibly both, is an organization of "live-wire" business men to handle this industrial situation and NOTHING ELSE.

Glendale needs urgently an organization of GO GETTERS!

That conditions are ripe for it is illustrated in the response to the brief campaign in these columns to concentrate industries in a single district. Last week an article was printed to the effect that the presence of a handful of industries in the Glendale avenue section is holding back development of the east side of the city. Before the week was ended the Glendale Sheet Metal Works had acquired a lot in the San Fernando road industrial area near Broadway and prepared to lead an exodus of factories from the east side to the extreme wset side of the city.

The growth of several local producing concerns has been portrayed in these columns to prove that industries thrive in Glendale and that in thriving they have not injured in the least the moral or social tone of this city. The story of the Glendale Sheet Metal Works is as inspiring as any yet told. Acquired two years ago by the present owners, after being closed for a brief period, the plant has advanced rapidly from a two-man shop to the employment of 18 skilled mechanics, turning out all the sheet metal used in Glendale and working on orders not only from points all through the San Fernando valley but as far north as Fresno and south as San Diego. This company will cover a lot 50x138 in the industrial area with a thoroughly modern plant.

Inasmuch as Glendale avenue sites may be sold at a profit and San Fernando road sites, with trackage, be acquired for much less it is expected the three lumber companies and one fruit packing company now operating in Glendale avenue will follow the Glendale Sheet Metal Works westward.

The time is propitious for organizing the GO GETTERS!

ERECT MONUMENT MAKER OF MASKS

Lieut.-Colonel Harrison Died Just as the Great War Ended

LONDON, Dec. 12.—A simple memorial has been unveiled here to the man who, next to the Kaiser, was cursed during the war by more millions of sweating soldiers than any other man in Europe—and whom milions more, gasping in a cloud of poison gas, have had cause to bless.

The memorial, unveiled in the examination hall of the Pharmaceutical Society, is to Lieuty-Col. E. F. Harrison, inventor of the box-respirator or gas mask, of which over 20,000,000 were manufactured for British and American soldiers, and which almost any soldier who has seen active service will say saved his life.

At the outbreak of the war Lieut.-Col. Harrison was a civilian, a distinguished chemist with three degrees. He made several unsuccessful attempts to enlist, but in 1915, at the age of 47, managed to get into the Sportsmen's Battalion as a private. His entrance into the army synchronized with the first German gas attack at Ypres, and he was immediately transferred to the special branch of the Royal Engineers. He quickly became a leader among the band of chemists who made up the anti-gas department.

After many experiments, he perfected the box-respirator, rendering the wearer immune from fumes of any known poison gas. He received rapid promotion, and finally became Controller of Chemical Warfare. He died in November, 1918, just at armistice time, from pneumonia, aggravated by exposure to gas during the course of his experiments. Shortly before his death he learned he was to be promoted to the rank of Brigadier-General and that he had been awarded the Legion of Honor.

SEATTLE CENTER OF FIERCE STORM

SEATTLE, Dec. 12.—Seldom has Seattle witnessed such a storm as began early Saturday evening and continued without let-up today. The rain caused wrecks and landslides that have resulted in one known death, probably five others and the injury of several others, one seriously. Homes crushed by landslides, train wrecks, washed out tracks, roads and bridges lie in the path of the storm.

LECTURE TONIGHT BY DORA ROSNER

Interesting History of Playing Cards Will Be Related

"The Occult Side of the Playing Card" will be the subject of an interesting illustrated lecture by Mrs. Dora Rosner this evening at 8 o'clock in the Odd Fellows' hall, 111 East Broadway.

Mrs. Rosner's lecture will be the fifth of a series of six prior to the formation of a study class in Theosophy and Comparative Religion.

Few people are informed as to the origin of playing cards. Playing cards have come down to us from remote antiquity where they were used by the priests of the Chaldees for divining mysteries pertaining to the life of man.

The use of cards for games is a comparatively recent practice but few people inquire into the purpose of playing card symbols. Why a king, a queen, the different suits, and so on. Mrs. Rosner in the course of her lecture will reveal hundreds of interesting and unknown occult significances attached to ordinary playing cards, and she will throw some light on the practice of telling fortunes with cards.

Interest in theosophy and occultism has been given a pronounced impetus in Glendale as a result of this series of lectures by prominent speakers and it is expected that a large number will attend the class, which will be held weekly in the same hall starting the first Monday in January.

SLAYER OF BANDIT RUSHED TO JAIL

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Dec. 12.—James G. Howard, slayer of Tom Slaughter, picturesque and daring outlaw, was held at the state penitentiary here today for safe keeping. The man, who admits having killed the notorious bandit who released him from his cell at the penitentiary in a sensational delivery early Friday, was rushed here from Benton following his arrest on a charge of first degree murder. Feeling throughout this section of the state was said to be running high against Howard and talk of lynching was prevalent.

HUNT WOMAN IN BROOKLYN TRAGEDY

Dr. Glickstein, a Brooklyn physician, was killed Saturday by a woman who entered his private office and shot him with a revolver wrapped in the folds of a stole. She quietly walked out afterward, passing a number of patients in the waiting room who had not heard the shot and suspected nothing.

Truths in Epigram

I am convinced that we have a degree of delight, and that no small one, in the real misfortunes and pains of others.—Edmund Burke (1729-1797).

Our ancestors are very good kind of folks but they are the last people I should choose to have a visiting acquaintance with.—Richard B. Sheridan (1751-1816).

THE CHRISTMAS TREE

The Christmas tree is not under the ban. Far om it. On the contrary the United States depart- etn of agriculture takes pains to advise people that ey are more than welcome to use all the Christmas ees they desire. The custom, instead of injuring e forests, is officially declared to be a benefit.

In making known its views touching this important bject, the department, ordinarily quite prosaic, unches upon a dissertation concerning this specta- lar feature of the Yuletide. It follows the history the custom as far back as it can, and finds that its search must halt at the edge of antiquity. Into e mists of that far period it may not go, yet could it , there it believes would be found the origin of the nblazoned tree.

Speaking literally, a Christmas tree does not mean e same in all localities. It may be of cedar, spruce, ne, fir, or possibly magnolia. Each region uses the pe most easily available. On the Pacific coast the is favored. The finest type of Christmas tree is e balsam fir. It is of small use as lumber, but it beautifully symmetrical, rich in deep green color- g. It has long horizontal branches, and the frag- nce of it is aromatic.

This country uses about 5,000,000 Christmas trees ch year. They could be grown on 5000 acres. he lumber industry cuts over a thousand times this reage annually. As the department circular says: f on December 26, 1921, all the nation's timber tters should begin work two hours late, the result- g decrease in acreage annually cut would be equal the area exploited by the Christmas tree industry r the entire year."

Lands from which trees are taken for the Christ- as market often are suited to pasturage rather than forest growth, and are improved by the removal the trees. The cutting of Christmas trees from rests, if done properly serves to help the growth of nber. Certain evergreen species, if cut above the wer sworl of branches, send the remaining limbs ruptly upwards, often to a height of six feet in less an two years. Thus it is possible to cut a crop of ristmas trees without reducing the supply.

Government foresters are distinctly against discon- uing the Christmas tree. Their creed is that the e could not be put to better use.

Cheering indeed, is this clear indication that Uncle m has a heart, and in it a place for the little ones this broad land.

KEEPING ALOOF

Banker Vanderlip blames the United States for riots in Vienna. He says these riots never would ve occurred had the plan of shipping wheat to stria been carried out. The League of Nations ught to bring about relief in this manner, but did t succeed.

Perhaps Mr. Vanderlip is extreme in his views, yet is a financier of acknowledged acumen, and a rm-blooded American. He certainly is not going out saying these things with a view to being un- t to his country.

The policy of standing aloof from all the rest of world would mean acceptance of the belief that troubles of Europe could be nothing to America. at such belief rests on the foundation of selfish- ss, tinged with stupidity, must be apparent at a nce.

As a matter of fact this country does not want ts in Austria. It does not desire conditions of nger there. It is gaining nothing by the distress Austrians. On the other hand, it would be glad see them adding to the wealth of the world, work- , producing.

Europe crushed under an unprecedented burden debt has no chance at a better day unless it has privilege of toiling. It cannot toil unless it first ll be fed. The poverty of a people that riots for ad, does nothing for prosperity anywhere. It ds to the sum total of the poverty of the world, d in this, every part of civilization, in some degree st share.

EVIL INFLUENCES

Assuredly there has been some potent influence evil loosed upon the world. The results may be n in every country. They show with startling em- asis in all large American cities.

There has been a habit of explaining conditions the effect of the great war. This theory probably s advanced merely in the absence of any other. llions of Americans were in the war. More than million were overseas. The people who knew m when they went, still know them. The experi- ces of war did not brutalize the soldier. It ened his vision. He did not learn to love cruelty. came back to normal living, and entered upon it, sibly with intelligence matured, but certainly with pacity undiminished. He was again the matter-of- ct and peaceful citizen of the republic.

It is not too much to assume that many wild and disciplined young men were actually made better body and spirit by the subjection to military rule, d the facing of grave dangers.

Disrespect for law is the basis of the prevalent ve of crime.

Ineffiency of the criminal courts is a concurrent son.

Idealization of criminals by writers of fiction and ys, and by silly reporters, must be counted in.

The teachings of the I. W. W. and kindred malign anizations, including that of which Lenine is the d, is not to be overlooked in the summary. The trine of hatred wrought into a controlling policy, poisoned many an individual and national soul.

Take for instance the creature who sets fire to property, wantonly destroying it. It is easy to see what inspires him. It is the doctrine of hatred.

The soapboxers, proclaiming all prosperity a crime, every successful man an enemy, have created in- calculable mischief.

Laziness gives impetus only in a single direction—the direction of crime. The lazy man who will not work, but must eat, is a public peril and burden.

Traffic in illicit liquor has brought into existence a new type of offender, who is anything from thief to murderer according to circumstances.

Narcotic drugs account for much crime. The ven- dor of such drugs is the most debased of humans. The addict to drugs soon loses conscience, is ready for any degree of wickedness; robs, kills, or applies the torch without qualm.

These few facts are presented as the teachings of the daily record of the world.

WHO'S OLD, ANYHOW?

Recently a man walked up the nine-mile toll road to the top of Mount Wilson. His time for the nine miles was two minutes less than three hours. He came down the same day, and busied himself on er- rands about the streets until dinner time. He was sorry that on the hike he had carried an overcoat. Without that garment he was sure he might have made a better record.

The hiker is seventy-six. It is this that makes his achievement seem remarkable. Many men and women of that age really believe themselves old and "out of it." They would not venture to the top of Mount Wilson even in an automobile. They would not essay a nine-mile tramp on the level. The very suggestion would make them tired.

It is an ancient saying that a man is as old as he feels. Granting the truth of this, it naturally be- comes his business to feel less than his years. This hiker of seventy-six simply declines to respect the calendar. He is quite aware what the calendar could prove concerning the number of his years, but "poof!" he says to the calendar, grabs a stick, and onward and upward he goes.

Twenty-three times has the now venerable man, who won't admit that he is venerable, made the an- nual ascent of Mount Wilson. Perhaps he has twenty-three similar trips ahead of him. The date of a man's birth doesn't signify much any more. Who's old anyhow, but the person who wants to be?

Amicable adjustment of the quarrel between Eng- and Ireland must be hailed as a signal triumph. It cannot fail, if successful in itself, to have important bearing upon the peace of the whole world.

A short time ago the government gave assent to the plan of brewing beer for medicinal purpose. Then the order was changed, and beer went under the ban again. Later it was sought to seize and destroy beer so manufactured. Whatever else may be claimed for this move, the brewers deem it unfair, and it doesn't look exactly consistent on the part of Uncle Sam.

When they have a political revolt in Guatamela it goes beyond anything ever sanctioned even by Tam- many. The chaps on the losing side are put in jail, if they happen to survive long enough, and the rest of the defeated seek tall timber. The recent presi- dent of that country was a prisoner last week. His successor may be a prisoner next week.

The daughter of Margot Asquith has written a book. Thus is to be observed the blighting effect of the wrong sort of maternal influence.

MEXICO

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Mexico is probably the richest country in the world potentially. That is, according to its size.

As to its physical conditions, it is probably the pleasantest place to live in the world.

In one hundred years from now, Mexico as a summer re- sort will have outdistanced Switzerland, and as a winter re- sort will rank beyond Florida, California, or the Riviera.

It not only has an unparal- leled climate; it has all kinds of climates. And you do not have to go long distances to pass from one to another; all you have to do is go up or down.

In time to come Mexico will be in all probability the most valued neighbor of the United States on the western continent.

What the country needs is to get thoroughly into its head and heart that the people of the United States do not want any of their territory and would not take it as a gift. All they want is to be able to live upon terms of peace, goodwill, law and order with the Mexicans.

With the assistance of Colonel George W. Goe- thals, the Mexican government is now planning what is probably the most extensive public works program ever outlined for one country at one time, as a recent newspaper editorial puts it.

This program includes the construction of a great system of public highways connecting all the state capitals and the capital of the republic, great improvement in wireless communications, building of new harbors on the Gulf and on the Pacific, the improvement of river and coastal transportation facilities, and the commercial development of the vast water-power now going to waste.

Mexico contains some of the finest ore deposits and oil supplies of the world, besides vast areas for agricultural cultivation.

All it needs to bring this wealth into actuality is efficient transportation.

That is, all it needs in a physical way. It needs, however, more than this, a system of thorough education for its population. For no country can prosper while its masses are ignorant.

A pacified and prosperous Mexico would open a wide and wonderful door of opportunity in the world.

And if we can once get rid of our rivalry of armaments among the nations and allay the fear of the South American republics that the United States has a desire to exploit them or ignore them, there is no reason why Mexico should not take her place away up toward the front in the procession of those nations which are marching hand in hand toward the Golden Year.

THE LISTENING POST

Afraid in the dark.
Perhaps you remember:
When you were a little fellow and were sent upstairs to bed.
And the lamp or the candle was blown out.

* * *

Then there fell a gloomy and fearful darkness.
The folks downstairs seemed so far away.
Spooks and goblins seemed to walk abroad.
There were strange noises.
The cracking of a twig.
The sighing of the wind in the trees.

* * *

It was all harrowing to the spirit.
You dared hardly look about the room.
For strange shadows rose.
And seemed to take shape as Captain Kidd.
Or Bluebeard or somebody out of the Arabian Nights.

* * *

You could not keep your head under the covers all the time.
And you wished you could go to sleep.
And forget all the visions and shadows and noises.
And after while you called faintly downstairs.

* * *

And then you called a little louder.
You wanted a drink.
Or something like that.
At least that is what you said.
But what you really wanted was a light.
And some company.

* * *

And if somebody came in response to your summons you confided your fears.
There were strange noises.
It looked as if somebody were coming right in that window.
And finally it leaked out that you were afraid in the dark.

* * *

And then you were told there was nothing to be afraid of.
Nothing would hurt you.
And you were to lie right down and go to sleep like a good little boy.
It was so very easy to say.

* * *

So very easy for someone sitting down there in the light.
With a fire going in the grate.
Cheerful company about.
Oh, yes it was easy.

* * *

It was easy for the comforter to go downstairs and say:
"Willie is afraid in the dark. Such a silly boy!
I told him to hush up and go to sleep!"
Well, we're older now.
And of course, nobody is afraid in the dark.
Oh no, indeed!
The big boys grown up and in the world are not afraid!
Not a bit!

* * *

There's the big banker, for instance.
Business clouds grow.
The sky looks black and dark.
Industrial troubles threaten.
Mony is tight, very tight.
And hard to get.

* * *

And he sits at his desk and wrinkles his brows and tries to figure things out.
He is not afraid in the dark!
Oh, no! No indeed!
He is just as cheerful as a funeral.

* * *

There are strange noises!
And hobgoblins of trouble coming in all the windows.
Ghosts moving about.
Who's afraid?
Surely not this grown up man.
For there is nothing in the dark to hurt him.
All he has to do is lie down and go to sleep.

* * *

And there is the big industrial captain.
With a strike on.
Heavy investments and no dividends.
A falling off of business.
Payments to meet.
And he sits alone and tries to figure it all out.

* * *

He's just alone in the dark like the small boy was, that's all.
There's nothing to be afraid of.
Angels are guarding him.
And he should lie down and go to sleep.

* * *

And so we might run the gamut of human affairs.
The hobgoblins of trouble dance in the shadows.
The ghosts of possible failure haunt us.
There is old age coming on.
A crisis in business.

* * *

And yet we told that little boy alone in the dark room that nothing would hurt him.
There were no ghosts.
No goblins.
All he had to do was to lie down and go to sleep.
So silly!
To be afraid in the dark!

SONGS OF THE POETS

Failures—By Arthur Upson (1877-1908)

They bear no laurels on their sunless brows,
Nor aught within their pale hands as they go;
They look as men accustomed to the slow
And level onward course 'neath drooping boughs.
Who may these be no trumpet doth arouse,
These of the dark processionals of woe,
Unpraised, unblamed, but who sad Acheron's flow
Monotonously lulls to leaden drowse?
These are the Failures. Clutched by Circumstance,
They were—say not too weak!—too ready prey
To their own fear whose fixed Gorgon glance
Made them as stone for aught of great essay;—
Or else they nodded when their Master-Chance
Wound his one signal, and went on his way.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NEBRASKA WOMEN'S PLATFORM

[Pittsburgh Gazette Times]

Nebraska farmers' wives have issued a Bill of Personal Rights. Rather it is in the form of an ultimatum embracing six points, not fourteen. The platform on which they will stand is the following:

"A power washing machine for the house for every tractor bought for the farm.

"A bathtub in the house for every binder on the farm.

"Running water in the kitchen for every riding plow for the fields.

"A kerosene cook-stove for every automobile truck.

"A fireless cooker for every new mowing machine.

"Our share of the farm income."

What the wife will demand as her share when the husband wants to buy that half-quarter adjoin- ing on the north probably is left to time and circum- stance. At any rate it will be something commen- surate with the expenditure, if we may reason from the examples given. In short, the farmers' wives are going to have well-equipped houses on the well- equipped farms. And why not? A labor-saving de- vice is as much needed in the work a woman does as for what a man performs. Why should a man have an easy time plowing or cultivating the corn while the wife rubs her washing on an old-fashioned wash- board? The women are not asking favors. It is justice merely, an equal division, that they seek. It may be not quite easy to install in the farm house some om the most valuable labor-saving machinery, but it can be done. There certainly is no reason why such homes should not have running water in the kitchen, if the farmer has a riding plow, or a bathtub if the grain is cut with a binder. The Ne- braska women make a good case.

JUST BETWEEN OURSELVES

By DELLA STEWART

A certain woman has recently become the pos- sessor of a wonderful sable coat which cost $60,000. That's most as much as you and I spent on our win- ter wrap, isn't it?

Yet, when we think of it, $60,000 was but a small part of the cost of the garment. It's a pretty diffi- cult matter to count the real cost of anything. Many a graduate of high mathematics fails here.

But we can sometimes approximate. First, the $60,000 coat cost the lives of over 100 sables, and three years' work of several collectors. It cost painstaking labors of selection of manufacture. Now that it has an owner, it will cost much to live up to its possession. One cannot don a $60,000 coat with a shabby gown or worn shoes. It will be worn at the cost of envy on the part of many, of the chance of pilfering by the lightfingered.

But it will gratify a certain pride of possession and, it may be, the spirit of liking to outshine asso- ciates. No doubt it will add distinction to the cos- tume of the wearer. There's surely no crime in the possession of a $60,000 coat. Many of us would like to revel on the richness of a like one—if we could.

But that's no reason for feeling as if fate had dealt the wrong hand to us, since we can't. The $60,000 coat will keep the owner no warmer than a $60 one—well chosen. Any one, with money un- limited, can select clothing of harmonious richness. But isn't much more credit due the one who makes few dollars do the work of many, and while so do- ing holds fast the spirit of contentment?

There's no reason for despair, then, if $60,000 coats be not ours.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

Charles W. Morse ought to understand by this time the value of reputation. As he comes back from Europe, to be met by a warrant and to face a cloud of witnesses, it is probable he realizes that public opinion finds him guilty in advance.

HENRY JAMES

He may not be guilty as charged at all. Never- theless the usual presumption of innocence is so far submerged that it can't even come up for air.

Years ago Morse was sent to the penitentiary for cause that a jury deemed sufficient. Had he served his term and come forth subdued and penitent, and then achieved success, his record would not now be held against him.

Morse escaped service of his term by the pre- tense of sickness. Released as a dying man, he was in the full vigor of activity the instant he breathed the air of a freedom he had cheated to obtain.

That is why he is distrusted now. He entered in- to war contracts with the government to the amount of millions. Here was his opportunity to make good. Insteading of conceding that he has made good the government now accuses him of newer and greater frauds. That he is under the disadvantage that people instinctively accept the government's view is his own fault.

The subject of dreams has been much written about. The old dream-book, however, has been succeeded by volumes supposed to be scientific.

Many readers will decline to accept the supposition as well founded.

People who dream habitually, and are interested enough to study their own visions, are aware that the great majority of dreams have no genesis that may be traced, no relation to actuality, past, pres- ent or future.

Dreams remain an interesting study not for what is known about them but for what is not known, and in all probability can't be found out.

Long before the death of a prominent citizen of San Bernar- dino he had drawn up a paper specifying his desires in relation to a funeral. The gist of his wish was that, as the term ordinarily is understood, there should be no funeral.

Doubtless if mortals, still in good health, but with the cer- tainty of a solemn occasion ahead for each of them, would give this subject definite thought, many of them would incline to the opinion of the late San Bernardinan.

Social strata in this world are jumbled, and morals seem to be badly mixed.

There is a club in Chicago con- taining young men and women of wealth. Some of the women are accused of bringing private flasks of whisky into the club rooms. Not long ago there was a function in which members, regardless of sex, custom or costume, went swimming together.

This club assumes to do some- thing for the betterment of the physical and spiritual uplift of the poor. It solemnly goes slumming and counts the experience a virtue.

Therefore the above mention of the jumble and mixup.

Fake pictures from Europe are said to be flooding the market. Many of these had been supposed by the owners to be the work of old masters. Only experts could discern the fraud, and even ex- perts do not agree in every in- stance.

Many art collectors in reality are collecting autographs.

Evidences appear that the crim- inals of this country maintain some sort of an organization.

It is not reasonable to suppose that the activities of the bandits and kindred desperadoes would be so general in scope, and so simi- lar in method unless the inspira- tion came from a common source.

Fiction writers have been in the habit of exalting the criminal and pointing the way to crime. Now they ought to begin to see what effect has been produced.

Many political prisoners in Ire- land have been freed. From this there has arisen the assertion that all political prisoners in the United States should be freed.

There is no analogy between the two sets of cases. Perhaps it would be well to open the doors to certain political prisoners here, but not by reason of anything that has occurred in Ireland.

It is cheering to note that the price of oil is governed solely by demand. The statement comes from the general secretary of a great oil concern, who certainly knows all about it.

Consumers have been inclined to think that the fixing of the price was wholly arbitrary. Per- haps they will continue to think so despite the hunch from near the throne.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

The Old Boy traded in his old car for one with a closed body and a larger flock of cylinders and a ten-acre wheel base and a ferryboat siren and more lights than a skyscraper the other day. So I went around to make him unhappy about it. The Old Boy and I have been confidential, candid, insulting friends for years. He knows as much of my business as I do of his, which is all there is. I know perfectly well that he can- not afford that big car.

"But here's the idea," said the Old Boy. "I don't want the darn thing, I'll admit. It is more trouble and more expense and harder to drive than the little old 'bus used to be. It is so slippery and shiny, too, that I am afraid of getting it scratched or nicked and that takes most of the fun out of driving it. But the wife wants it and I want her to have what she wants if I can get it for her."

That gave me an opportunity like an open door and I drove right in. I showed him that his duty was to make certain of his wife's comfort after he had passed on, being, in the comforting way of friends, per- fectly certain that he would make the grade into the next world before his pleasing wife. He should save all his money, I told him, and amass a heap of stocks and bonds and thereby make her a more attractive widow. But he said that I conversed like a fish.

"Im carrying enough life insurance," said he, "to make her sure of a living income. It is so tied up that she cannot alieniate it or blow it in or marry it away or anything. She will not be able to live in the style in which we live now, but by that time, I trust, she will be so old that she will not want to live in that sort of style. Meanwhile, we are comparatively young and we like to have good times and good cars and I see no reason why we should not have them. She says she had rather be a happy wife than a rich widow, anyhow. We've talked it over."

This is a highly original and heterodox way of looking at this par- ticular problem of matrimony, it seems to me. Most wives want the husband to make certain that their widowhood shall be at least as lavish as the best days of wifehood. Or else they do not think about it at all.

DO YOU KNOW THAT?

KATHRYN KITTERMAN'S BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

A very pretty birthday party was given Friday afternoon and evening when Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Kitterman of 311 North Kenwood street entertained in honor of their daughter Kathryn's 13th birthday. The house was beautifully decorated in red hothouse roses and poinsettias. Red favor baskets and poinsettia place cards were used at each place and other table decorations were red candles and sticks tied with a large red bow and placed on tiny white doilies trimmed in red. There was a large birthday cake decorated with a big poinsettia and 13 tiny red candles placed in red rosebud holders.

The afternoon and evening was spent in playing games, prizes being awarded Jeanette Yarbrough for the best work in dressing a doll and Helen White for giving the best stunt. At 6 o'clock a delicious dinner was served to Genevieve and Madeline Noyes, and Clara Ransdell of Los Angeles; Helen White, Betty Glade, Evelyn Meeker, Jeanette Yarbrough, Josephine McLaren, Janice Drown, and Leon Percy of Sunland. The guest of honor was the recipient of many pretty and useful gifts.

GLEN EYRIE CHAPTER MEETING FRIDAY

Although listed on the calendar as an ordinary meeting, the session of Glen Eyrie Chapter, O. E. S., Friday night, will be long remembered. The work of the evening included the reception of the following members by initiation: Milly Mattiesen, Mary F. Moffatt, Elizabeth Larr, Marjorie Tennant, Elizabeth Michel and Erma Nicolaus. There were also received by affiliation Marjorie Henderson, Amanda Rowe, James Henderson, John Jurgensen and Alvena Jurgenson.

Mrs. Orma Naudain, the retiring matron, made a little speech of farewell in which she thanked her officers for the loyal support and co-operation in making her term a success, and also thanked members of the chapter and committee workers for their efficient and helpful work. At this time she presented to Mrs. Frank Vesper, the retiring chaplain, a beautiful emblematic ring as a souvenir of her devoted work during the year.

Mrs. Naudain is one of the best beloved members of the organization. Mrs. Naudain has so endeared herself to officers and members that the change which severs the ties that have brought her into such intimate relationship with all the work of the chapter brought a little note of sadness which filled the eyes of many with tears.

Following the session, a party was given by the retiring officers in the banquet hall where refreshments were served at tables decorated with Christmas colors and emblems and where a jolly social time was enjoyed.

SOPHOMORES HAVE PARTY FRIDAY NIGHT

Over one hundred guests enjoyed the jolly party given by sophomores of Glendale High in the girls' gymnasium Friday night. It began with a grand march at 8 o'clock.

Winifred Parker was chairman of the entertainment committee and divided the company into groups for progressive games. After playing one game about 15 minutes, they were stopped and joined another group playing another game. It proved a jolly diversion that promoted acquaintance.

The program also included a musical reading by Evelyn Hunt for which her sister played the piano accompaniment. Robert Frazee and Boyd Taylor gave a skit in dialogue.

Class colors and Christmas emblems featured the decoration of the "gym" and the refreshments, the ice cream being served as individual red Christmas bells, and the cake in squares frosted in red with the numbers 24 in white frosting.

The guest list included Miss Abel and Mr. Miller, the class teachers, and a number of parents of students. Miss Emma Laura Cooper was general chairman of the affair; Katherine Stofft, chairman of decorations, and Catherine Guthrie, chairman of refreshments.

BENJY HOGUE HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mrs. Roy V. Hogue entertained at a dinner party the last of the week in celebration of the thirteenth birthday of her son, Benjy Hogue. Christmas colors featured the decorations and appointments and theh feast was crowned with a handsome birthday cake, whereupon thirteen candles burned.

Covers were laid for Riley Lyon, Shirley Preston, Noble Hampton, Dylon Knox, Jack Meddick Sandford, Raymond Beveridge, Robert Boyd, Charles Worley, John Berry, the host, Benjy Hogue, Mrs. D. Owen, Mrs. A. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Tuck and Dr. and Mrs. Hogue.

Following the dinner the boys spent a pleasant evening playing games and other diversions.

STARS ON PROGRAM OF TUESDAY CLUB

The stars on the program to be given at the meeting of the Tuesday Afternoon Club this week are Earl Mansfield Bright, a distinguished violincellist and member of the Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles, who is now a resident of Glendale. He studied abroad and won a scholarship in the Royal Conservatory at Liepsig. He has made several tours of the United States, playing in all the large cities, and ranks very high in musical circles.

Miss Alma Gieger will be the pianiste of the afternoon. She, too, is now residing in Glendale. She is a member of the Cadman trio and is a popular entertainer among women's clubs of the coast.

MARGUERITE STURGES HOSTESS SATURDAY

Miss Marguerite Sturges of 310 North Cedar street entertained a party of friends on Saturday night, a very enjoyable evening being spent in popping corn and toasting marshmallows. Several musical selections were rendered.

The guests were Miss Anella Evans, Miss Jessisa Hughs, Miss Stella Larson, Mr. and Mrs. Dewey Gregory, Miss Aloise Lusby, Miss Edna Burney, Miss Cunard, Dr. John Sate, Dr. Harry Campbell and Charles Ryan, all of Los Angeles.

A surprise came during the evening when Mrs. Gregory, who was invited as Miss Mildred Wallace, introduced Mr. Dewey Gregory as her husband. Mrs. Gregory was a roommate of Miss Sturges and her friends were very much surprised to learn of her marriage.

BEREAN CLASS ENTERTAINED FRIDAY

Members of the Berean class of the Baptist Sunday school were entertained Friday afternoon at the home of Miss Elizabeth Bohannon, 316 North Maryland avenue. The specil work of the afternoon was the completing and packing of articles for the comfort of babies which the class has been preparing, and which were to be dispatched to the Central Mission in Los Angeles, to be given out where they would do the most good. With each knitted wash rag which the box contained was wrapped a bar of soap and a Christmas card, the value of the box was estimated at $16.

Mrs. E. Moody of 320 North Maryland avenue is president of the class and Mrs. Dockeray its teacher.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Dockeray, on South Louise street, on January 3. It will be in the nature of a party or reception for new members and light refreshments will be served. About 18 ladies were present at the Friday meeting.

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Bagg and daughter, Geneva of 347 West Acacia avenue, accompanied by and Mrs. Roland Bagg, Miss Breta Friedborg of Los Angeles, motored to Long Beach Sunday where they called on several old friends formerly of Des Moines, Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Keeley and family of 517 South Louise street spent Sunday in Van Nuys and Lankershim.

EDWARDS-WILDEY OFFICE CHANGES

Mac Mullin and MacPherson in Charge Local Branch

The management of the Glendale branch of the Edwards & Wildey company has just been assumed by W. P. MacMullin, who has been a resident of Glendale for many years, and W. F. Macpherson, who formerly oclupied a position of considerable responsibility in the Los Angeles office of this company, who has also been a resident of Glendale for years.

Messrs. Macpherson and Macmillin will be assisted by W. H. Stadt, formerly of the Wilshire office of the Edwards & Wildey company, and John S. Wilson.

During the past two or three years the Edwards & Wildey company has opened a number of new tracts in Glendale, and in that has done much to assist in the upbuilding of the city. Since 1911 this company has sold 631 lots in Glendale. Hundreds of very desirable residents have been brought here through the efforts of this company, and the tracts they have opened have been of such character as to be objects of pride to Glendale. Most of their activity in opening and selling of tracts has been in the west and northwest sections of Glendale, where many high-class pieces of property are located.

The scope of this company has been broadened. An architectural and building construction department has been added, which means that in the future this company will be of even greater service to Glendale than it has in the past.

The company will soon open a new tract, "The Edwards & Wildey Orange Grove Tract," which is located on Pacific avenue near Kenneth road. It is understood that this tract will be ready to present to the public some time during the latter part of his week.

Mrs. Clifford Wykoff of 200 South Everett street, Miss Harriett Bagg and Miss Isabel Tisdale, spent Sunday afternoon in Los Angeles calling on friends.

Fashions for Americans

One of the most popular and practical styles of the season for little girls of four to seven or eight years, is the wool jersey bloomer frock, and the mother who has not experimented with this fabric in its various color combinations cannot realize how smart it is possible to make these inexpensive little garments. The one shown in the sketch indicates the popular length of smock or blouse used with these outfits, the upper or smock part of the garment usually being long enough to show just a few inches of the bloomers.

Heavy wool embroidery in a shade to match the fabric, used as a trimming, marks the point where the yoke or the smock is joined to the slightly gathered lower section. Some are made with yokes, others are straight and plain. The yoke is usually becoming to the older child, particularly a rather slender child, and the plain, straight line smocks are best for the younger child and the older one who is inclined to be fat.

High shades are particularly smart in the wool jersey dresses for children, colors like bright green, rose and a very deep lavender being popular. Such shades as wistaria, and a pale yellow are combined with good effect. The fancy for bright shades, however, does not at all mean that the more sombre and practical colors are taboo. Henna and gray, brown and tan, navy and green, etc., are pleasingly combined.

The Wool Jersey Bloomer Dress May Be Smart as Well as Practical

JUVENILE MUSIC CLUB MEETING

Interesting Program at Intermediate on Saturday

The juvenile auxiliary of the Glendale Music Club met at the Intermediate school Saturday afternoon and was called to order by its president, Susie Smith. A short business session was held, during which several new members were admitted to the organization. The program which followed began with the ensemble singing of a "Safety First" song. Then the story of the "Messiah" was given by Janice Fletcher. After that, the club sang Christmas carols, "Holy Night," "Hark, Hark the Angels Sing," "Joy to the World," and others.

An account of the origin of the Christmas stocking was given by Rhoda Covert, and Victrola numbers followed. This ended the program and after that Christmas games were enjoyed. Between 25 and 30 children were present.

The club adjourned to meet the second Saturday in January.

SERIES OF VALLEY BALL PLAY STARTS

A series of interscholastic volley-ball games will take place this year between girls of Glendale high and teams from surrounding high schools. Glendale's first game will be played Tuesday at 3:30 p. m. in the girls' gymnasium at the local high school with a tea mfrom Covina high. Admission will be limited to those who are holding student body tickets.

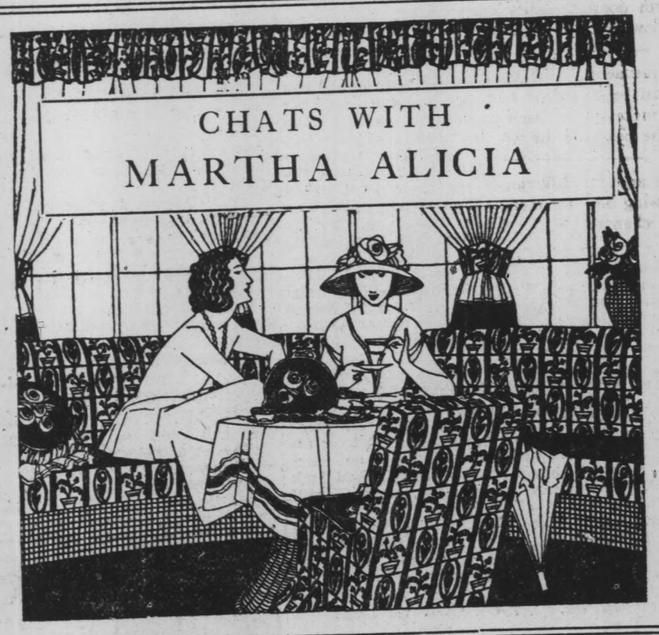
CHATS WITH MARTHA ALICIA



WHEN YOU ARE READY TO VARNISH or enamel your woodwork, stop in at STEVENS' PAINT STORE, 219½ E. Broadway, and ask about Tector—the phenomenal new undercoating! Tector has so many new and exclusive merits—so superior in so many ways to the generally accepted undercoat materials that it must be ranked as a genuine, important discovery! When Tector has been used as your undercoating, not even bending will crack or cause the enamel to peel off! It is really a wonderful innovation—for it will wear so much longer than most accepted products of its kind. Step in and ask Mr. Stevens to tell you all about Tector—I'm sure you'll be delighted.

RHEUMATIC PAIN
Rub it right out - Try this!

Rheumatism is "pain only."

Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub the misery right away! Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly into the sore, stiff joints and muscles and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" conquers pain. It is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and does not blister.

Limber up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of old-time "St. Jacobs Oil" at any drug store and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief and a cure awaits you. Get it! "St. Jacobs Oil" is just as good for sciatica, neuralgia, lumbago, backache, sprains and swellings.—Adv.

G. A. R. VETERANS HELP FLOAT FUND

Members of N. P. Banks Post No. 170 G. A. R. were appealed to by the chamber of commerce for assistance in the drive for funds to make the Glendale float to be entered in the Pasadena tournament of roses, a success, and responded with a contribution of $14.30.

This fund was raised by the veterans by popular subscription. The old soldiers passed the hat around. The members of this organization found it possible to donate this sum to the float fund as their part in boosting for Glendale, their home town. They contributed this out of their money that is needed to care for the needy members of the organization. If they could contribute $14.30, it should not be a hard task for the citizens of Glendale to each contribute a dollar to the fund.

JUST AS THE FANCY BAKERY, of 142 N. Brand Blvd., is synonymous with the best of pastries and good things to eat—so is St. Nicholas synonomous with fruit cakes, plum puddings, and mince pies and pumpkin pies! So today when I was near the Fancy Bakery I stepped in to ask Mr. Walsma about his holiday specials—and I wasn't disappointed, for they are even now taking orders for their famous fruit cakes, puddings and pies! Why, do you know, that their fruit cakes are made of such pure and fresh materials, that they have been known to keep fresh even despite a long voyage across the ocean to Holland? Yes, indeed—for you see the citrin, cherries and almonds used are perfectly fresh! These are being sold now at the nominal price of 65c per lb. The mince and pumpkin pies you may leave your order for, so that they may be made fresh for your Christmas dinner—they are 30c each. And, speaking of Christmas dinner—it would be like forgetting the turkey, not to serve plum pudding, wouldn't it? The most delicious looking round plum puddings I've seen in ages are being sold now for the holiday dinner at the Fancy Bakery for only 50c each. Step in and leave your order now, so that you may be assured of its being filled for Christmas.

SALMON SALAD WITH PEAS

Drain one-half pound can of pink salmon and remove skin and bones; separate into small pieces, add one cup cooked peas and mix with any good salad dressing. Serve on lettuce leaves. A good late supper or emergency dish.

CHRISTMAS IS A DAY OF rejoicing for the whole family—a day that is remembered and compared from year to year throughout our lives. And I believe, one of the outstanding features of the day of festivities, is the family dinner! There, gathered about the table, with faces radiant and wreathed in smiles of joy, may be seen the entire family, from little Baby Brud, in his high chair, to Grandma—gently surveying the group with her kindly old eyes! It was in anticipation of this looked for and never-to-be-forgotten feast, that I paid especial attention to finding of worthy foods for the table on this memorable day! And, if you'll just drop in at the stores and shops that are represented in these columns, I'm sure you will find a veritable treasure trove of good things to eat!

WON'T MOTHER be pleased to seat her guests around the electrically-equipped dinner table on Christmas day, and proudly explain—"These appliances are my children's gifts to me!" Can't you imagine the little murmur of delight that will pass around the table, as her friends quickly survey—

The lovely new chandelier that sheds its softly diffused light o'er all the table—daintily playing the while on the silver and glassware—that beautiful new electric urn or coffee percolator on its silver tray, gracing one end of the table—

The dandy electric grill, conveniently placed on the serving table, where it's ready at a moment's notice—

And, the waffle iron, toaster, curling iron, laid aside where all may see and appreciate their beauty and utility——!

Don't you think they'll all be just a wee bit envious of these useful and practical, yet truly beautiful gifts? Won't they wish they had some dear one to drop in at the JEWEL ELECTRIC CO. of 200 East Broadway that complete and up-to-date electrical shop), where you made your purchases and send home like gifts for them.

BUSINESS GIRLS IN AMERICA DO NOT BOB THEIR HAIR

Delegate to Geneva Says American Girls Are Highest Type

LONDON, Dec. 12.—Business girls in America do not bob their hair nor smoke. That is, if Miss E. MacDonald, British delegate to the International Congress of Working Women at Geneva, obtained the correct impression of American business life from American delegates.

Miss MacDonald has returned to London enthusiastic over the American girl office worker.

"Many American women were at the conference," she said. "They struck me as being more alive than those of any other nation.

"The American girls, I was told, are very difficult to organize into unions because none of them intend to remain as routine workers. A girl goes into a business as a junior typist and before long she is assistant to the head of the firm.

"But it doesn't do for her to bob her hair or smoke.

"I was much impressed by the opportunities of promotion which girls have in America. They are better paid than the clerks here. Many of them come to Europe for a holiday. Their firms give them leave for the purpose—it is looked on as part of their business education.

"One girl I met, who is employed by an association which dissembles literature among the universities, had been given nine months' leave to come to Europe. The representative of the waitresses of America told me that they are either very badly paid or very well paid. The two extremes often exist in cafes side by side.

"Miss Zung, the Chinese delegate, told me that the Chinese suffragettes have lately been fighting the police. Some of the Chinese girls are now ticket inspectors on the railways, and many are typists."

BURCH'S SMILE IS CENTER OF FIGHT

Defense Says Crazy Smile State Says It's Regular

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 12.—Linked to the murder of John Belton Kennedy by a remarkable chain of circumstantial evidence welded bit by bit in superior court here, Arthur C. Burch prepared today to fall back on his last defense—a plea of insanity. The defense today had marshalled an array of alienists to prove the collegian insane.

The prosecution was conscripting an equally impressive army of mental experts, headed by Dr. Thomas J. Orbison, to establish Burch as a man of "unusual intelligence and absolute sanity." Both sides prepared to introduce the defendant's enigmatic smile as exhibit A.

Defense alienists will contend that no normal man could smile constantly and exhibit a pleasant demeanor in Burch's hazardous circumstances. Alienists for the prosecution will attempt to prove the smile a not unusual nervous reaction to intense strain, indicating that it proves Burch's high strung and keen mentality rather than possible insanity. Burch himself confided a naive explanation of his smile. "These alienists are certainly funny," he said.

'THE SHEIK' WILL BE HERE TUESDAY

Agnes Ayres Will Star in Great Picture at T. D. & L. Theater

Two really big names head the fine cast which was assembled to play the many colorful roles in "The Sheik," George Melford's latest production and Paramount's new contribution to the theater-going public, which will be shown at the T. D. and L. theater for three days beginning Tuesday.

These are Agnes Ayres and Rudolph Valentino. Miss Ayres, whose earliest claim to fame was as the "O. Henry girl" in a series of pictures based on stories by that famous author, has since risen step by step, by dint of faultless work in such pictures as Cecil B. De Mille's "Forbidden Fruit," and many others, until she has now become one of Paramount's leading feminine stars.

Buster Keaton's latest comedy, "The Boat," will also be shown at the T. D. and L. theater beginning Tuesday.

WHAT HAPPENED TO CHATTER SQUIRREL

By JOHN BARTON
(Copyright, 1921, by Associated Newspapers)

When the Woodsfolk recovered from the astounding news of Chatter Squirrel's death they began to ask, "When did he die? How? Where? What from? What about his treasure?"

"What about his widow?" asked Silkears, Nibble Rabbit's sympathetic mate.

"Shh," continued Dr. Muskrat. "She's here. But she doesn't know it yet, and this isn't the time to break it to her. We must hear what she has to tell—and help her first. Let's step up here on the sand."

He left his stone and led the way to the bank, right where Malty Kitten fought Miner Mole, right below the hole Nibble dug for Malty to live in way last spring. From the bush that hid it Tufty's ears pricked up, anxious eyes peered out, a timid whisper asked: "Chatter? Isn't Chatter there? Haven't you found him?"

"Not yet," answered the old doctor in his gentlest voice. "But I've brought all his friends. Now tell us what happened. We're listening."

The bush rustled. Then, as if it took all her courage to face them, the widow squirrel dragged herself into the moonlight. Poor thing, she surely needed help! She was starvation thin; her coat looked as if she'd been out in a week's rain; worst of all one leg was helpless.

"There isn't much to tell!" she sobbed. "Chatter and I were over in the walnut grove where I have my hole; he always came when the nuts shed their summer coats." (She meant when the frost peels off their hard green husks.) "First thing ever we knew, Bang! went a gun. My leg felt as if a bee was stinging it; then that foot let go and I fell—I don't know much more. There was a dog barking a long way off, it seemed, then right beside me, saying the awfullest things! The man barked, too, as if they were going to fight. When they went away Chatter was gone, too.

"I guess he thought I was dead so he ran straight home where there aren't any guns. I came as fast as I could—but it took me ever and ever so long to get here. I thought maybe somebody'd look in his hole for me, 'cause I still can't climb."

"Somebody will," purred Silkears. "You poor little thing! Don't you move a paw. What you need is rest and nursing."

"Just a minute," said the doctor. "Where shall we look?"

NEXT STORY—WHERE WAS CHATTER'S TREASURE HOLE?

'CHASING SALLY' ROAD SHOW HERE

Comedy Laughstorm Presented Tonight at T. D. & L. Theater

Until you have seen W. B. Patton in the comedy laughstorm, "Chasing Sally" you have never so thoroughly enjoyed a play in all the world. It comes here for one night only.

This glorious laughstorm comedy which is now raging through this part of the country is due here tonight at the T. D. & L. theater. It is a rattling good show, expertly written and splendidly acted.

DINNER PARTY

AUBURN, N. Y., Dec. 12.—A man and wife, serving life sentences here, entertained at dinner their 14-year-old daughter, born in prison, now an orphan asylum inmate. It was a family reunion.

Just Between Ourselves

By DELLA E. STEWART

There aren't many of us who wouldn't eagerly accept success, could it be handed to us on a silver platter. But too many times we think that because we have heard that the world owes us a living we can sit down peacefully and let her pay. The world isn't that kind of a debtor. She's the common or garden variety that wants to be urged and coaxed to do her share. It's the kind of a debt that must be collected—with much effort on our part.

Somewhere, somehow, in the fruitful years before the present lean ones, values became woefully mixed in our minds. We put that of ease before that of labor; that of enjoyment above striving towards ideals. We thought, did we stop to think at all, that our mixing thus would permanently settle such questions. Why should we not feel ourselves infallible, our intelligence superwise? Had we not accomplished wonders through the last decades? Invention after invention, discovery after discovery, adaptation after adaptation—these had rapidly come. We grew cock-sure of ourselves.

But one thing we had forgotten. We had forgotten that humanity cannot change the immutable laws of the universe. We may ignore them, we may declare they are not there, we may be innocently ignorant of them. But sooner or later they pop up, like a jack-in-the-box, to confound us, and to prove our puny strength of body or of intellect, to say sternly: "Thus far, and no farther!"

Success has always meant hard work—the real variety. It always will. Success has always meant perserverance and high ideals and single-minded effort—it always will.

We can have it—if we pay the price.

JAPS TO RETAIN ISLAND OF YAP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—The controversy between the United States and Japan over the island of Yap has been settled, Secretary of State Hughes announced today. The settlement was effected at a meeting of the Far Eastern committee.

Under it, America will get one of the three important cables running into the island. The only point which delayed settlement was the question of granting American "equal opportunities" in Yap. This concerns business, of which there is little, and America will stand on the same footing as other powers, under the treaty. Japan retains the island.

SENATOR MOSES ATTACKS WILSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 12.—Woodrow Wilson, Henry Ford and Southern senators were bitterly assailed by Senator Moses, New Hampshire, during a speech defending Senator Newberry today. Characterizing the movement to oust Newberry as a "Democratic conspiracy," Moses declared that the Michigan senator is being persecuted by Southern senators. He expressed his belief in Newberry's innocence and announced that he would vote for him.

Y.M.C.A. BOYS VISIT PUENTE SATURDAY

Day Spent in Athletic Contests Listen to Fine Lecture

About 400 boys enjoyed the Y. M. C. A. athletic festival at Puente Saturday, 48 going from here about 1:30 in company with F. H. Wilcox, J. H. Gosser, W. C. Boyd, Maynard Toll, Philip Henderson, George Lemon and Secretary Rex Kelley. They were joined here before starting by the boys of Burbank groups and on the way, gathered up the boys of Eagle Rock.

The afternoon was spent on the athletic field of Puente high, where Harry Rimmer, who was althletic director of the Pacific fleet during the war, led in such games as were played by the soldiers and sailors—cage ball, tug-of-war, soccer with a number of balls in the field at one time, and circle and line games.

At dark the boys gathered around three bon fires over which wienies were roasted, the Puente Y. M. C. A. having charge of the supper.

A big circle was made around each bon fire and the wienies and buns were passed until each boy was read to cry "Hold! Enough!" The supper was topped off with hot chocolate and apple pie.

After supper the company adjourned to the high school auditorium, where the groups from the different schools gave their yells and songs and medals for shooting, which had been won by the boys in summer camp, were presented by Mr. Rimmer with appropriate speeches. They were all bronze medals except one of silver, which was won by a boy from La Verne. Two Glendale boys present received medals—Kingman Gregg and Leland Gosser. Other Glendale boys had earned them but were not there to receive them.

Mr. Rimmer then described the running of a marathon race of 27 miles, for which he holds the world's record for that distance, won in 1911. He said he would probably always hold it because shortly after that contest the distance was shortened to 25 miles. He told of the start with 43 contestants starting when the shot was fired, and one nine in the finish. He explained that the reason why more did not finish was that they had not trained properly. He won because he had done everything he could in the way of training. He likened the marathon to the race of life, making the moral application of the things that should be done and that should be avoided.

INVISIBLE PLANE IS NEW WRINKLE

Metal Like Glass Discovered Is Claim Made in London

LONDON, Dec. 12.—An invisible aeroplane may make its appearance in the next war. Ernest Welsh, of Hull, claims to have discovered a metal with the transparent properties of glass, which he proposes to use in the construction of aeroplanes.

Welsh is of an inventive turn. During the war he experimented with anti-Zeppelin rockets, submarine signals and silent guns. Since then he has marketed a device to improve the lighting of ships and a system for gassing rats.

So far Welsh's newest invention has not caused much of a stir. London scientists are sceptical.

Dr. Rosenheim, of the National Physical Laboratory, a well-known authority on glass and steel, declares it is impossible to make metal transparent, nor, he said, had any progress been made in efforts to make glass strong enough to resist fracture.

Shaw Scott, of the Institute of Metals, said the essential of a metal was its opaque character.

"The only method in which any metal has been made at all transparent," he said, "has been by beating. We have pieces of metal at the Institute, notably old, beaten out to such ultra-micoscopical thinness that it shows a certain amount of translucency, a greenish light being able to pass through it.

"This was only an experiment into the ductility of the metal. It is possible to get silver and aluminum down to this fineness, but it is of no special constructive use."

Apparently the inventor has not submitted his discovery to the research department of the air ministry. An official of the department said that certain forms of camouflage and the use of highly polished aluminum were very successful in lowering the visibility of airplanes, but that nothing had been heard of the invisible plane.

GLENDALE PEOPLE HOME FROM TRIP TO RIVERSIDE

League Meeting There Considered to Be Big Success

Dr. Jessie Russell and F. H. Vesper attended the session of the Southwest League at Riverside last week, returning Saturday. They report that the friction referred to by newspaper correspondents grew out of the effort of representatives of the power companies to stampede the convention and persuade it to set aside the provisions of a constitution which has been in force four years which limits the vote to paid-up members of the league, and so to put through a resolution which would give each state but one vote which meant that five states whose delegates were private ownership people would control the convention. An attempt to put through a resolution objecting to federal control and public ownership also failed.

Dr. Russell says the league has always been more of a formum than a regular convention and from that view-point it was a great success. Mr. Jeffries of Ontario, Canada, received a great ovation of applause following his exposition of how practical public ownership in Canada has proved to be.

The governors of the states interested in the Boulder dam project and the division of the waters of the Colorado, are meeting today in San Diego and Dr. Russell is attending the meeting.

An Englishman arrived in the wild lands where the real cowboys come from. He had been told to ask for a certain ranch foreman who would give him a job. He went up to a man in the first village he came to.

"Have you seen a tall fellow with a dark beard hanging around here?" he asked.

"Yes," said the man, "day before yesterday.

"You're sure?" asked the Englishman.

"Oh, yes; I had hold of the rope."

Two Irishmen were being shown round a coal mine for the first time. When they saw the coal coming up the shaft from the pit, Mike remarked: "Sure, I'd like to see the men who put those great lumps of coal in the skips! They must be terrible strong!"

"Don't be silly!" said his friend Pat. "Why, it's that dark down there they can't see what they're liftin'!"

It hurts a pretty girl more to be ignored than it does an ugly girl to be reminded that she is homely.

Opportunity doesn't wait for the man who is late.

POLICE HAS BUSY WEEK END ROLE

Various Offenses Handled by Judge Lowe in Court Today

The police department had a busy week-end. Answering a call on Sunday evening that came in from Glendale and Acacia streets stating that there were two men on the corner who were under the influence of liquor. Detective Sergeant Delgardo investigated and found Louis Vasquez. Vasquez was locked in a cell at Fire House No. 1 and was fined $20 by Police Judge F. H. Lowe this morning.

R. M. Morrow reported that his automobile was stolen from in front of the Baptist church Sunday morning. John Lambie of Los Angeles reported the theft of his automobile from Brand boulevard and Broadway. The car was found later parked in front of Forest Lawn cemetery.

EXCHANGE HOME WITH DR. KETCHAM

Mr. and Mrs. S. V. Phillips who have been living at 128 South Everett street but who had placed the property on the market with a view to getting a smaller house which would be less care to Mrs. Phillips, have solved their problem by exchanging property with Dr. and Mrs. Ketcham, whose home was at 439 West Lexington. The Phillips property was exactly what Dr. Ketchum wanted, and Mrs. Phillips is delighted with the west Lexington house, which contains a north room which will be just what she wants for a studio.

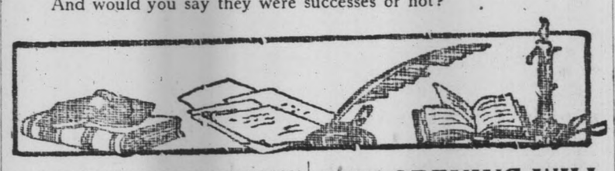
SUCCESS

Don't say he's a failure—it 's not yours to say;
For just what he is much depends on the way
You reckon what's failure and what is success.
And we're all of us failures perhaps, more or less
Now there's Thomas Lincoln—perhaps in his day
Some local appraiser found quick tongue to say:
"That's Abe Lincoln's daddy—aint had much success,
Might say he's a kind of a failure, I guess."

Yet, considering Abe and the work that he did,
We owe his dad something, if his light was hid
Down under a bushel, and it seems to me
That Abe was a mighty good-sized legacy
To a right needy world; and perhaps if you had
Been alive in the day of Columbus's dad,
Some smug social jurist had said, with grave stress:
"That's old man Columbus—he aint a success."

Yet Christopher did quite a job in his day,
And we owe his dad something I'm tempted to say.
So I'm not admitting that Abe Lincoln's dad
And old man Columbus were much to the bad.
You can't tell by looking on top of the row
In which hill the biggest potato will grow,
The vine that looks shriveled may grow the big spud,
And the big stalk have nothing but nubbins and mud.

And smooth little fellows with tight little wads
And snug little fortunes and smug little gods,
Have filled up the world for some ten thousand years,
Have smiled little smiles and have cried little tears.
They have made little piles and have breathed little breaths,
They have lived little lives and have died little deaths,
And have filled little graves and were straightway forgot—
And would you say they were successes or not?



PASTOR EDMONDS' SERMON SUNDAY WAS HISTORICAL

Tenth Anniversary of Pastorate, Big Gains Were Shown

Sunday was the tenth anniversary of the pastorate of Rev. W. E. Edmonds at the Presbyterian church, and was observed with special features. Of the scarcely 200 who had been present on the day ten years ago, a very considerable portion was in the audience and was asked to rise while a prayer was offered.

The sermon's text was: "Sing unto the Lord with an instrument of ten strings." In part the pastor said:

"We will use in figure his 'instrument of ten strings.' The keynote string, from which all others are tuned, is God's holy word. If we are not tuned to this, everything else fails. This pulpit has always stood for the full inspiration of the Scripture, and the Word is everyway magnified in this church.

The second string is prayer. A praying church is a church of power. The dominant note in this church is prayer. Prayer must have its time and place; our partner in it is the Holy Spirit.

The third string is praise for the Holy Spirit, who came when Christ went away, to teach us of Him. There has been manifest leading of the Spirit in the history of this work. Where He leads us we dare to follow.

Next, a combination of the fourth and fifth strings, tuned in wonderful beauty: 'Abide in Me,' and 'I in you'; these give forth heavenly harmonies. 'Cults' and 'isms' have made little inroad with us, for we have kept our strings tuned with the Word of God.

The sixth, seventh and eighth are a remarkable combination of three strings; it takes a spiritual artist to play them; they play so sweetly. Here they are: Receiving, Giving, Stewardship.

Now here is the ninth: Unity. Oh, how we love to touch it! All kinds of people are yet all one. Diversity of mind? Yes, but one spirit. Many members, one body.

Now the last string. We are to praise God through all eternity; this will be the dominant note of angels' harps. We call it Love.

My dear friends, I am not ashamed to stand up and tell you that I love you! May God permit this service to continue for long! Here is a motto: The 13th chapter of I Corinthians, heading up in 'But the greatest of these is love.' And so we bid farewell to the years that are behind, with all their experiences. In the name of Christ, look up and not down, look forward and not back.

This day, ten years ago, this church had about 180 members. Since then, 1306 have been added. Many of these have passed on elsewhere; 62 have gone home to glory. The number is now 1008, and more are coming continually. So God has blessed us—it is His doing. Let love be the dominant note. And it shall be our purpose, as God gives us ability, to praise Him on an instrument of ten strings.

Town Topics

Operated On—W. R. Davidson of Verdugo Heights, who underwent a serious operation at the Glendale sanitarium on Sunday, came through it in excellent condition and is doing well.

Appendicitis—J. H. Cline of 324 Ethel street underwent an operation for appendicitis last Friday and is making a good start on the road to recovery at the Glendale sanitarium.

Society Meeting — The Southwest group of the Women's Home Missionary Society of the First Methodist church will meet at the home of Mrs. Jordan, 223 Hawthorne street, Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Members are requested to note the change of time and be as prompt as possible, as there is much work to be transacted.

Elect Officers—Mary Jane Gillette Tent No. 18, Daughters of Veterans, will meet Tuesday night in the American Legion hall, 610 East Broadway. This meeting is one of importance as the annual election of officers will take place, and all members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Bishop Home—Mrs. Elgin Bishop, who recently underwent a serious operation at the Glendale sanitarium, was well enough to be removed to her home at 136 North Cedar street Saturday afternoon.

Wayne Yarrick Home—The ambulance of Pulliam & Kiefer was requisitioned Saturday to convey from the Glendale sanitarium to his home at 347 West Wilson avenue, Wayne Yarrick, who has so far recovered from shotgun wounds from a gun accidentally discharged, that he will soon be as well as ever.

Royal Arch Meets—Wednesday evening, Los Angeles Chapter No. 33, Royal Arch Masons, will have a get-together meeting and reception for Mattison Boyd Jones, grand high priest, at which time the Royal Arch degree will be conferred by the high priests of the 16th and 17th districts. All of the chairs will be occupied by high priests and Ernest Morgan, high priest of Unity Chapter, this city, will be high priest in the East.

For Thornycroft—Mrs. Frank Hall will entertain Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at her home, 1201 Viola street, with a card party for the benefit of disabled veterans at Thornycroft. Anyone interested in this good cause is invited to telephone the hostess (Glendale 229-W), and secure reservations.

Dr. Soper Ill—Dr. Julius Soper, the retired clergyman of Casa Verdugo, had a fainting spell last Wednesday which caused his friends considerable anxiety. He rallied and seemed much better, but had another attack last Saturday and is now in quite a weakened condition. Overwork is thought to be the cause.

Brother Passes—E. W. Lyon of 214 North Louise street received a telegram Sunday announcing the death of his oldest brother, who had been residing in Lyons, Kansas.

Attend Shrine Club—John Wellington Boyle, one of the four Ancient and Arabic Masons of the order Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, who has been made emeritus member of the imerial council of the Shrine for life, has just come to California and was a passenger on the overland train on which Stephen Delgardo of East Lomita avenue, this city, has his run. Mr. Delgardo states that Mr. Boyle will visit Glendale during his stay here to attend a meeting of the newly organized Shrine Club. Mr. Boyle, who lived for many years in Utica, N. Y., was a railroad magnate until he sold out his interests a short time ago.

Boy Improves— Eric Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Morgan of South Central avenue, who has been quite ill, is better.

League Social—A delightful social affair was enjoyed by young people of the Epworth League of the Pacific Avenue Methodist church Saturday night at the church. Games and a short story constituted the program, and refreshments were served.

Christmas Party—The Sunday school of St. Mark's Episcopal church will hold a Christmas party for the children on Friday night at the Guild hall, at 7:30 o'clock. Mrs. Bernays, superintendent of the Sunday school, is in charge.

Breaks Leg—Mr. Anderson, 1137 East Elk street, was taken to the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital Sunday suffering from a broken leg, the result of a motorcycle accident. When taken to the hospital Mr. Anderson was unable to give any information regarding the accident or how it occurred.

NEW OPENING WILL WORK HARDSHIP

Cut W. H. Verity Out of Fine Annual Income

The opening of Wilson avenue west to San Fernando through the chicken ranch of W. H. Verity has brought considerable harpship and loss to that citizen and Mrs. Verity. It has put them out of a business which returned a gross income of $24,000 last year and all their expenditures in that connection were made in Glendale. Besides land absorbed for street purposes it took about half their chicken houses, one of which sheltered 1000 birds. The expense of moving this equipment makes the houses almost a total loss and as they do not find it practicable to carry on a poultry plant on two sides of a street, they have closed it out entirely and sold their 3500 fowls. As it would take two years to develop another plant of corresponding capacity and value, Mr. Verity is taking up another line of business as the California representative of the medicinal "Mountain and Valley Water," bottled at Hot Spring, Ark.

His land, on the corner of Broadway and Pacific, has a frontage of 120 feet on Broadway and ran north to a point about midway between Wilson and Salem streets. The frontage on Wilson he has sold to Mr. Michel, the contractor, who will improve it with dwellings which he will place upon the market. The Veritys will still have quite a large holding on Broadway and Pacific.

It's queer how anxious people are to lend you money when you don't need it.

SHIRT HUNTING IN OLD BUENOS AIRES

Shirts Are Always Supposed to Be Covered by Vest Like Garment

BUENOS AIRES, (By mail to United Press.)—The old saying, "pigs is pigs," may be true, but when it comes to shirts, you have a different proposition. It is true that all shirts in the United States are more or less the same. It is also true that all shirts in the Argentine are the same.

Almost all Americans in the Argentine, when first they come to this country, bring enough shirts to last for a while. They do not last forever, however, and they are forced to call upon one of the many "Camiserias" (shirt shops) which abound in the city. There they are shown shirts; shirts that are similar in style to our familiar college sweaters in the United States; shirts that button half way down and slip over the head. All of the shirts on the same plan as our dress shirts, that is with false bosom and cuffs. The bosom of the shirt is usually striped, and so are the cuffs. The bosom and cuffs are of one material, usually good. The remainder of the shirt is made up of a cheap white cloth.

The idea is supposed to be that the shirt is always covered by a vest, save in the two good parts, therefore what is the use of wasting good material? The American who likes to go without a vest in the summer months is completely out of luck. He is also out of luck if he attempts to find a shirt with soft collar attached, which has been so popular in the United States. He is shown a blue shirt such as is worn with overalls in the United States. They always think here that if a shirt with a collar attached is wanted, it is desired for laboring purposes.

As for white shirts, well, "there ain't no such animal," that is, unless a dress shirt is desired. The average Argentine craves color and lots of its style and still more of it, and most of all, inexpensiveness.

Why is a young man so anxious to keep on the right side of his best girl when he must know that her heart is on the left side?
